Is Reduced - Kohl Calls

Official returns early today showed that the 46-seat majority of Mr. Schmidt's Social Democratic Party and its governing coalition partner, the Free Democratic Party, had been trimmed to eight seats in the 496-seat lower house of Parliament.

Mr. Kohl, whose Christian Democratic Party's vote increased about 3.7 percent. this year over lts showing in the last national election, in 1972, did not concede last night, "It's a great result," he said describing bimself as "the moral victor of this election."

Ford Congratulates Schmidt

Mr. Schmidt, looking tired but relieved, spoke to his staff and reporters in his office building here at 10:30 last night. 'We'd have been glad to win a few more votes, but Mr. Kobl won't be Chancellor." He added, smiling: "President Ford telephoned me a few minutes ago to congratulate me-he said we deserved it."

The Chancellor said he and his Free Democratic coalition colleague, Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Geoscher, would continue to lead the Government for the oext four-year term. "We will continue our work with the goal of consolidating and building on our past achievements," Mr. Schmidt said.

A Cool and Private Chancellor

Helmut Schmidt

By CRAIG R. WHITNEY Decial to The New York Times

BONN, Oct. 3-Helmot Schmidt has always been a lonely man, driveo by ambition and a cool, Protestant North German self-esteem that has ofteo repelled the clubby politicians in his own party. In the past two-and-a-half years as Chancellor, he has beeo Man

News predecessor Willy Brandt-respected but not really loved. Only Mr. Schmidt's steel-gray hair betrays his age. His trim, short figure and his chiseled features make him look younger than his S7 years. He speaks flat, colloquial English so well that it is hard to beleve he taught himself the language, after the British oc-cupied his native city of Hamburg in 1945.

Hamburg was and is a business and trading port, with strong overseas ties to Britain and the Baltic that go all the way back to the medieval Hanseatic League. Helmut Schmidt's influence has been just as wide-reaching.

If the City of New OYrk ever erects a mooument to the man who saved it from abandonment by the Federal Government, Mr. Schmidt's aides be-Government, Mr. Schmidt's atoes be-lieve, "the statue ought to be of Hel-mut." On a visit to Manhattan and Washington a little more than a year ago, the Chancellor said he was airaid that New York might be allowed to go bankrupt and commented, "It ought to be taken as a very serious interna-tional problem." tional problem

Later, when President Ford releated on aid for the city, an assistant to Mr. Schmidt said, "He may he wrong, hut he thinks he changed the President's mind.'

Nicknamed 'Schmidt the Lip'

Io the United States and in Britain, at least, Mr. Schmidt won respect for steering West Germany throogb the worst recession since the 1930's. But West German economic might is still feared by France, the Netherlands and Denmark, and this Chancellor, unlike previous oces, was not self-effacing about his power.

His rise began in 1962, when a cata-strophic flood and gales drove tens of thousands of people in Hamburg from their homes. Helmut Schmidt, then the city official in charge of the police, took over the job of coordinating the relief effort from Mayor Paul Never-mann. "Mr. Mayor," he is reported to have said, "you are in the way."

From then on, and as a young Social Democratic deputy in Bonn, be was better known by the nickname "Schmidt the Lip." And many of his fellow European leaders in the last twn years came to feel he deserved it, es he lectored them at meetings in Brussels, Paris and Rome on the need to keep inflation under control, moderate uoion demands, and take unpopular measures. "If we press hard," he said recently,

'it's because people listen to us There's no point in talking only behind Closed doors or in whispers." But he has paid for it. In France, where fear of German ecocomic might increased apprehensions about his per-sonality. Helmut Schmidt became known as "the Master Sergeant."

known as "the Master Sergean." Whatever happened, he said as the campaign wore on, he would spend the first few days after the election in his small lakeside vacation bome on the Brahmsee, in Schleswig-Holstein north of Hamburg. There he feels at home, sailing, sleeping late, bundling up against the automn cold in a muffler and o castorers can and e seafarer's cap. His health is not rohust. In. 1973 and 1974 he suffered from a thyroid gland disorder that caused his eyes to bulge, and io February 1975 he came down with a mild form of pneumonia.

Considered a Private Person

In many ways Mr. Schmidt is a pri-vate person. He met his wife, Hanne-lore-known as "Loki"-when they were both schoolchildren in Hamburg. He recalls that he was just about to be released from active doty in the army in 1939 when, over the radio, the oews came that Hitler's armies were "shooting back" in Poland, and were "shooting back" in Poland, and the war began. In 1942, the couple married and at the end of the war Helmut Schmidt. a first lieutenant in the Luftwaffe, W2S briefly a British prisoner of war.

His career since then has been a straight line op in Social Democratic party politics. After studying ecocom-ics at Hamburg University, or rose in the city administration and became a deputy in Bonn in 1953. In 1969, in the first postwar Governmeot led by the party, he was Defense Minister, three years later he was Finance Minister, a post he kept until Willy Brandt stepped down in May 1974. "Loki" Schmidt, who became a schoolteacher, traveled with her hus-band oo his 15,000 miles of campaign trips hut never made a speech or stood oo the platform: "That's too American for me," ber husband said.

Introspective, Cultivated Side

Helmut Schmidt has an introspective, cultivated side. He is an amateur or-ganist of some ability, with a love for the works of Johann Sebastian Bach. A week ago toward midnight in the Bavarian city of Passau, he asked if he could see the cathedral organ, the largest io the country.

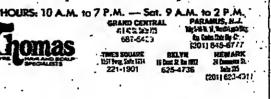

The organist escorted Mr. Schmidt to the console but he was too tired to play. The organist pulled out some principal stops and played the somber chorale:

Who leaves the Lord to do His way, And hopes in Him with steadjastness, Will be sustained through every day, In need and time of sadness.

According to a journalist who was with them, "Loki" Schmidt nodded as the music echoed through the hail, "And we will."

fectively nn the slogan,"Freednm Instead of Socialism." He criticized Mr. Schmidt's deficit budgets, cast doubt oo the sound-ness of the welfare state after seven years of Social Democratic rule and characterized the Government's policy of deteote with the East as "irresolute."

Mr. Genscher said last night that "we might have done better," hut pledged that the Free Democrats would hold fast to their alliance with the Social Democrats for another four years.

A long period of tactical political maneuvering lies ahead. The oew lower house, or Bundestag, will convene on Dec. 14 and Mr. Schmidt'a majority will almost certainly vote to inaugurate him. But whether his majority will survive defections and constant pressure from Mr. Kohl's party all the way to 1980 seems far less certain.

Restoration of full employment, Mr. Schmidt pledged, would be the most im-portant task before the cext Government. He has not specified what he would do to reduce unemployment, onw at $93,000, but he said last night that he expected a continuing economic growth rate of 6 percent this year and cext. "The ecocomy s now running well ecough," he said few days ago, "so that any additional stimulating would endanger the goal of keeping inflation under control."

Détente Goes On, Winner says

In foreign policy, Mr. Schmidt says that détente will continue, in slow but not spectacular steps. He has said that he and Mr. Brezhnev "will talk about trade, oo the application of the four-power agreement on Berlin and on our view of trying to get multilateral talks on troop reductions in Central Europe moving agaio."

The Chancellor clearly hopes that President Ford will be re-elected. If not, he fears, it might take until May for a Jimmy Carter administration to get fully Mr. Schmidt cote last night that the 1972 results won by his predecessor, Willy Brandt, was the best in his party's his-tory, hut that "this is the second best." His own Parliament majority will be only a little better than the three-vote margin that Mr. Brandt had in October 1969. ater defecttions melted this down to a tie by the spring of 1972, and Mr. Brandt called and won an election in Novemper of thet year.

For the first time since 1953, the Social Democrats lost votes instead of gsining, signaling the end of a 20-year trend to-ward the moderate teft in West German politics.

Doubts About Carter Are Abundant Among Milwaukee Working Class

But Interviews Indicate They May Hurt Him Less Than Question of a Strong Presidency

By JOSEPH LELYVELD tal to The New York Time

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 3 — Doubts about Jimmy Carter abound in the solidly work-ing-class South Side of this city: doubts about his character, his religion and his views. But all of these seem less detrimental to his candidacy, finally, than an

Career of Butz Is Marked by Conflicts And Abrasive Remarks on Touchy Topics

By WILLIAM ROBBINS

cial to The New York Times WASHINGTON, Oct. 3-'T don't know why Earl makes those remarks," an associate of Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz told a reporter not long ago. "It must be part of the image he wants to project out in the country for his farm constituents."

He was speaking before the Secretary created the most career-threatening controversy of an embattled term, the conductors of any member now serving in President Ford's Cabinet, hy racist remarks that he was disclosed in the most recent issue of New Times maga-zine to have made to John W. Dean 2d

White House officials said yesterday that Mr. Ford was prepared to sacrifice his outspoken Secretary, despite Mr. Butz's assumed value in winning the farm vote in the current Presidential campaign, unless the furor subsided.

The President had just reprimanded Mr. Butz for a reference to blacks as "coloreds" who wanted only three things in life-satisfying sex, loose shoes and a warm place for bodily functions-wishes that were listed hy Mr. Butz in obscene and scatalogical terms.

Source Identified

Mr. Dean, the former White House legal counsel who quoted the remarks in an article in Rolling Stone magazine, did not identify the source, but New Times magazine subsequently did. Mr. Butz then gave only the second recorded apology for controversial remarks during his career in Washington. His first apology was over remarks he two years ago regarding hirth made quarters as disrespectful to the Pope . and to Italians. The episode extended the Secretary's record of controversy and neepened the enigma of Mr. Butz described by one enigma of Mr. Butz described by one of his closest associates, a high official of the Department of Agriculture. Throughout his term, the Secretary has seemed to delight in conflicts, to toss out deliberately abrasive remarks on the most sensitive of subjects, to make jokes that listners often regard as tasteless, to display a hardbitten ex-terior and to enjoy the resulting image.

During the world hunger crisis of 1974, he remarked, "some people are always starving somewhere." Mean-, while, he said, Americans are "not going to eat less; we're going to eat

To a housewife complaining about high food prices, he once said: "Yon're wrong, they're too low." He made similar statements publicly when the Administration was worrying about rising meat prices. Recently, during a campaign trip to Minnesota, he gave this response to a reporter questioning him at a news conference about the possible environmental effect of clearing more land for

But whatever else he may be, Mr. Butz is far from the simple, uncomplicated image he projects. His associates noted, as several reporters knew, that the Secretary in 1974, while showing a hard exterior was working behind the scenes to increase food aid. Meanwhile, he could tell farmers the kind of jokes that always seemed to warm up his rural audiences. One of his favorites is said to be a story about a missionary, a farmer and a politician captured hy cannibals. The missionary, he says, was tender, the farmer was tough out tasty and the politician was. "juicy, and rich—but hard to clean."

A Farm Boy

His affinity for rural andience may stem from his boyhood on his father's 160-acre farm in Noble County, Indiana, where as the oldest son ha learned the rigors of farm life.

And even then he did not shy from controversy. A younger brother, Dale, recalls that young Earl braved his par-ents' wrath with this complaint, scrawled on the wall of a shed: "Earl, feed the chickens, Earl, feed the hogs," Earl, gather the eggs, Earl, separate the cream, Earl, do everything.

In graduate school at Purdue Univer-sity, Mr. Butz helped pay his own way with a mind-reading act in a magic show, but he also became scholar enough to join the faculty and later become dean of agriculture.

Served Under Eisenhower

He served as Assistant Secretary under President Eisenhower's Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson. In 1965 he sought unsuccessfully the Republican nomination for Governor of Indiana.

And in 1971, at a time of falling farm prices when former President Nixon sought someone to replace Clifford M. Hardin and win back his own

He had been in office only a short while hefore he hegan, despite a philosphy of opposition to Government intervention in farm business, to buy corn off the market in order to raise prices. His popularity and that of President Nizon among farmers immediately hegan to rise.

But he outraged many of the farmers in 1974 when he suggested their image for hard year-round work was changing because of better times. For many of them, he told The Des Moines Register, the production and vacation cycle had become "corn, Miami; Beans, Nassau." After his remark about birth control, there were demands then that he be dismissed-demands that quieted

Later, when Mr. Butz songht to retire and return to his classroom, Mr. Ford asked him to stay through the election. Presumably, the Secretary would still like to return to the classroom, but not under the pressure that his own latest remarks have spawned.

ould the Martial Law in the Philippines ntinue?

er four years of Martial Law, just before the F Convention in Manila, and the eve of Presat Marcos' moves for the world to regard his ernment and the Philippines synonymously, whole country, those for or against President rcos, pnt prime importance to the question of ther Martial Law should continue or be lifted.

re are mountains of reasons why this question, st clarified, is impertinent, perhaps misleading.

r years ago President Marcos declared Martial in the Philippines and ended its democratic of government. The reason given by Presi-Marcos was to reverse the "old society" of the ippines which was the old political system of a llocked democracy with its uneducated mass power elite. The New Society was born.

will dispute the ills of the "old society" in the opines. There can be many things said about stifying an act like Martial Law but there is one central characteristic of the old society was the root source of its ills: corruption. rant corruption in all levels of life and in al s of government. Corruption as a way of life. ther ills too numerous to mention were related s one way or the other.

stally when Martial Law was declared to rethe old society, it had only one central theme oe central promise rolled into one word: purie old society of the Philippines was nothing orruption and ineptitude. The solution, the Society, is purity and discipline. We can ore take notes that cannot be disputed:

The only justification and the only license urtial Law is the New Society with its idealisconfusable framework - Purity and Discior all.

1. The New Society therefore is like the ting soul and conscience of the government, ver government. No civilized government 1 or ideology will accept corruption. The I Law government in the Philippines is a f reconstruction government whose only juson and license is for weeding out corruption fore anything else.

If the Martial Law government is unable to the reason why it was established, then it basis for its existence. The price (Martial o to speak, is there but not the goods (New ' for all).

verse is true if the New Society exists and

The New Society (if it exists) is the immortal soul of the nation. It can only he true if it is immortal. It is immortal if it is above all men since men are mortals. The first act of its leader is to declare himself, his family and their interests under the law and hence under the New Society to which it is accountable, just like all citizens are accountable. This is not a concession but the first condition of a New Society hased on universal values that are outside of politics, dehate, or strategy.

The New Society is based on a universal truth that no government or system or ideology can flourish with corruption and therefore the first step of any country for serious nationhood is to establish purity (at least in government service) and accountability to it-and to make this the first issue of acceptability or rejection hy the people.

This is not debatable as is anything based on universal truth like the New Society. Newton is known for the laws of nature he observed well enough to put his labels on it like Newton's Law of Physics. However, nobody will dispute the fact that Newton is not the law of nature, and that he cannot alter it to his convenience, and that he is not exempted from such laws. Unless of course Newton was a "man" who was exempted from gravity, and that he can also change such laws of nature, and that such laws are only real with him in it, and therefore he is the law.

The immortal test of the New Society is the same since it is a body of truth and good and this heing its sole basis, governs man - not the other way around. Three things are therefore uncontestable facts about the New Society: (1) that the New Society is not those who framed it; (2) the governing value of the New Society cannot be altered by anyone even those who framed it (no one can change-the truth and declare corruption good and purity had); (3) that no one is exempted from it, not even those who framed it.

If President Marcos says YES to this letter he is therefore in effect declaring and putting himself, his family, and their interests under the law in the New Society and is therefore accountable to such laws and ideals-just like all citizens of the Philippines. He will convey this answer by doing the following: President Marcos will order the reprint of this letter one week after this letter appears in the New York Times or exactly on October 12, 1976. (President Marcos and all the Philippine Government instrumentalities in the Philippines and abroad will receive a copy of his letter at the same time.) The reprint will appear in all the daily newspapers in the Philippines but no less than the Bulletin Today, The Times Journal, Daily Express.

The reprint will be in full, unabridged, errorless, and occupying the whole page of the back page of the main sections of the Philippine newspapers. Thereafter all these exact requirements of reprinting this letter will be repeated again every first Mondav of each month from November, 1976 to September, 1977 inclusive.

There are two steps in this citizen act, the second one is the minimum effort. First Citizen Action: To join all New Society organizations like Barangays, Sanggunians, Mabuhay Ang Filipino Movement, the Military, etc. and purifying them hy first setting examples and then hy actual crusade and prosecution of corruption and ineptitude.

The Second Citizen Action is a minimum act expected of every citizen, lest they do not deserve the citizenships they are now verifying: Every first Monday of each month (from November, 1976 to September, 1977 inclusive) you will vote for or against what you see is happening in the country. Naturally there are things you like and do not like and you must therefore determine your net vote. If your vote is positive or approval, you will work at least one hour overtime for that month and donate your one hour's wage to the government.

If your vote is negative or disapproval, you will stay home and abstain from going to your school or office. You will write your reasons why your vote is negative in a form of a letter to President Marcos. You will give suggestions for solutions if you have any. This non-work-school day will of course he made up hy you the following Saturday or some other time: If you are questioned by your school, employment or any authority, give them your letter to President Marcos. Otherwise if there are no questions, mail the letter to President Marcos in order to help him know the real conditions in our country for appropriate solution.

You must exercise fairness in your judgement and if possible conduct a bit of research before you come to conclusions. For instance, you must understand the difficult and complex prohlems of an overpopulated. under-developed, non-industrial poor country like the Philippines. However, in matters concerning the New Society values, you must he uncompromising. You must protest vigorously against any form of corruption and ineptitude especially from public servants and demand immediate prosecution.

We must qualify this letter as to what it is and what it is not. (1) This letter starts and ends with this letter. It bas nothing to do with any effort for or against President Marcos prior to this letter or after this letter. Any claim to this effect is a sure proof that such a claim is false. (2) The New Society must be the highest object of service but it cannot be served through ignorance. The citizens must know about this letter and each New Society supporter must pass at least 10 copies to 10 different Filipinos.

(3) This letter can only work if based on certain realities. The most important reality is that judgement of the past cannot be made by those who will support this letter. The letter calls for citizen action to purify the country from September 22, 1976 oowards. However no carry-over from the past sbould be accepted.

It is plain to see that this letter cannot he part of a true political confrontation. This letter does not advocate for or against any political methodology. Its essence is pure; it is heyond political confrontations, hut not from moral conflict. It calls for the New Society to be equally as real as the Martial Law it licenses to operate. It calls for purity, discipline, and dedication which are universal virtues ideal for any serious political metbodology, and in fact are the declared pillars of the New Society.

The only parties in the Philippines today that will oppose this letter are those with something less than pure motives. These can be the following: (a) Political opponents of President Marcos who place more importance on their differences (political methodologies) with him rather than on the common ground of service to country and pursuit of the common good. It is likely that these particular interests think that the success and failure of the New Society is the success and failure of President Marcos. This is correct if President Marcos pays the price too of the immortal New Society.

Otherwise from here on it is not necessarily correct to assume that the success of the New Society is the success of President Marcos and vice versa. (b) Any bandit or pirate in the Philippines today who will realize sooner or later that there is only one interpretation of the New Society—and it can in fact prosecute him with all the powers in the land that are based on and licensed by the New Society.

Message to President Marcos

You must agree that the qualified leader of the New Society must pay its price and set the example in our country. This is the first qualification of leadership in the New Society and there simply is no way to go around it.

With your Yes reply, Mr. President, there is no way for you not to lead a serious New Society and bring your government beyond suspicion in no time. With your No reply, you will be testing every conceivable logic, reason, courage and plain self-respect of millions of your countrymen. They will serve the New Society with you-or against you if you choose this moral conflict. Or they will simply leave our country and leave you everything but the elements of a nation. The prospects are not bright. The obvious sorry loser is the Philippines. •

We urge you to say "Yes" to this letter Mr. President, and be the first to say "Oonganaman." Sooner or later, whether initially in private or in public, your most notable generals and cabinet members down to the last clerk and soldier will say "Oonganaman." Oonganaman. That means there is only one immortal version of the New Society and we must all join the New Society and pay the price of its promise. The New Society is now irreversible.

With your noted courage Mr. President, you might seriously consider nominating the leader of the New Society who is therefore disposed to the first qualification for the leader of the New Society. This can be one or several of the New Society practitioners in your government who will likewise have the experience. This is of course if your answer is "No." It is the privilege and the duty of every Filipino citizen to nominate.

re Martial Law is valid. The New Society f it is in fact delivered or its vehicle for y is there beyond doubt.

wo conditions surely verifying the existence New Society is as undeniable to the experi-42 million Filipinos as their experience of Law is. Let us check these two conditions the people;

e main provision of the New Society in fact ered? That means, in your experience, is iption weeded out or do you feel at least your government is beyond suspicion and refore on its way?

ie vehicle for the delivery of the New sty there? Do the citizens feel that exactly ame powers that President Marcos used to re Martial Law are there for them to serve New Society? More specifically, does any n in the Philippines today who is part of New Society hy practice (purity and line) have all the same powers available esident Marcos when the citizen acts to / and purge those that are not part of the Society?

and tence of the New Society is the issue unorget that the "old society" was the reason olishing the New Society and declaring Law (which is merely a tool, not an issue).

> 1 one can debate these two conditions that ... rify the existence of the New Society, we realistic to accept the minimum satisfacthese conditions as a proof that the New printists. This minimum test is whether the ; iety is available to the citizens at least as a to work on to achieve the New Society is is a condition that if proven negative ically invalidates the New Society since right of citizen action to test the justificavernment is not available.

umum test can come in a form of a questhe citizen who practices the New Society iscipline) as the first step, and who then rd to purify and purse these these the New Society (corruption, ineptitude) cond step, have with this citizen the idenvers (Martial Law, etc.) that President used (and is using) when he declared Marand set the nation for the New Society?

> is available to the rulers available to the the same common goals? Is the New rue for government and for citizen action The same powers for the same objeci pursuable by all-against all that are ar none? If this is so, and the answer is n the New Society exists. If this is not the the answer is NO, then the New Society isted and for four years the Martial Law used without accountability to the reait was declared, and therefore without whatsoever.

If President Marcos declares himself above the law in the New Society, be will then say NO, and this will be taken as such if any of the following conditions exist: (1) anything more than or anything less than the exact requirements of a "yes" reply as provided by this letter, (2) any form of translation or commentary about this letter using the media or the public information system in the Philippines.

The terms for a reply to the question is not and must not be negotiable. After 42 million Filipinos have invested in Martial Law for four years, the exacting requirements of this letter for a YES or a NO reply from President Marcos are indeed insignificant-and quite necessary to remove any doubt in the people's mind how President Marcos classifies himself in the New Society.

No system of government, type of constitution, variation of any ideology will work without a morality framework like the New Society. The basic approach of President Marcos in attempting to first give guarantee to certain pre-conditions (purity, discipline) of nationhood explains the New Society well and certainly justifies Martial Law. Martial Law is a tool and a price of a necessary reconstruction government that consolidates the nation first prior to any political alternative which is another issue and is not the concern of this letter

The issue raised hy this letter is more fundamental. The issue now is not political methodology or political alternatives but simple moral accountability which is undisputable. This is accountability of the New Society and President Marcos' accountability to it. The question bad been asked of President Marcos and he will surely answer this question one way or another.

The Filipino nation must answer the question too whether it has what it takes to pay for the first step to serious nationhood. The first step is to verify or invalidate the existence of the New Society by attempting to seriously practice it. One cannot condemn the New Society (and blame President Marcos) without first attempting to practice it seriously.

Regardless of the reply of President Marcos, the supreme duty of every Filipino citizen today comes in two parts: First. To practice the New Society and therefore be a part of it. This is to be pure (to have integrity and be without corruptio), and to be disciplined. Second. After being a member of the New Society to purify, prosecute, purge all those who are not part of the New Society-bar none. In this act one must demand the use of the whole gamut of law and power under the New Society including but not limited to Martial Law.

If the corruption for instance of a Mayor is coming from his vested interests and investments with opposing interests to public service, he must sell and dispose of such interests prior to the First Monday of November. 1976. If he does not do this, this is a carry-over of the past. He must put the proceeds of his vested interests in a bank where it has a neutral effect in relation to his duty, and a good effect to the national economy.

However if the Mayor remits the proceeds of the sale of the vested interests outside the Philippines where it will be had for the country's over-all financial position, this is a carry-over effect and must be prosecuted under the New Society in the same manner as those crimes committed after September 21, 1976. With this qualification, the people will draw the sense of fairness and reality to what is now attainable under the New Society.

Conclusion

To judge Martial Law assumes that the status of the New Society is established. If the New Society is invalidated by the acts of President Marcos, or by the failure of the Filipino people to practice the New Society, or hy not having the vehicle for its practice (like the First Monday vote), then Martial Law has indeed no hasis at all of being continued.

If on the other hand the New Society exists hy at least being verified that citizen action is possible with the New Society, then Martial Law is indeed justified and its use not yet completed until the present reconstruction government had prepared the nation to choose an alternative government, ideology, or system.

We all strive to serve our country and the common good. This is a goal and a right belonging to everybody. It is the monopoly of no one. Those who share the same beliefs and methods in how to serve one's country are political allies. Those who do not share the same methodology (beliefs in types of governments, constitutions, ideologies, etc.) of serving are political adversaries and enemies.

Even armed revolutions are most of the time quarrels and disagreements on bow to serve one's country. The methodology of serving the country and the common good are the only basis of true political conflicts and political unions.

The conflict is personal (no matter how large or small) when both sides have motives other than to serve the country and the common good. It is a moral conflict when one side of the confrontation is with the service to country and the common good as its motivation and the other side has reasons other than this. This is the case between robbers and policemen; between the mass of the country and a self-serving government; between the general public and simple pirates; between what is uncontestably right and good and what is wrong.

This letter nominates you to possess the 2nd. 3rd. 4th up to 10th qualifications which would refer to the many things required of a leader and the many things you are. Many of our countrymen will agree.

However, only ycu Mr. President can nominate yourself to he the correct and qualified leader for the New Society based on its unchangeable first oualification.

Finally, Mr. President, you have expressed your deepest concern that the people's true choice be reflected in the coming referendum (see headline of the Philippine Daily Express, September 29. 1976). We all know that what this letter asks of you is related to whether a true public opinion is possihle or not when the true source of power in the country is not qualified to hold it. Right now, people will simply think that a vote against Martial Law is a vote against you and you have all the powers. Any argument to the contrary will be quite pretentious and without the experience of living in the Philippines the last four years.

At the very least, Mr. President, you must encourage circulation of this letter. If you are true to your wish for an honest public opinion about Martial Law. First of all, the implication of Martial Law must be qualified if the people are to correctly vote on it with their true sentiments. It must he clearly qualified that Martial Law or any crisis government option of the state is an instrument with specific uses and accountability which is in this case the New Society.

The use of such instrument as Martial Law and crisis government powers is limited to the direct and accountable goals of the New Society-and for no other use-lest such possible unlicensed use of powers are likewise violation of the New Society. It is therefore prosecutable by the same instrument. This will then clearly state that the immortal New Society is the true source of power representing the interests of the people. The public must know this without doubt, like the way the New Society is printed clearly in the currency they have been using for four years. Without this qualification and the assurance that its provision exists, no true public opinion is possible. The people must demand for the New Society and you must decide, Mr. President, whether you will resist them or lead them.

Citizen's Committee For The New Society

For Carter Ladies, a 'Pig-Pickin', in Georgia

By WAYNE KING

LOVEJOY, Ga., Oct. 2-About 200 Southern women and their geotlemen attended a "pig-pickin" or pork bar-becue, at the old plantatioo farm of Senator and Mrs. Herman Talmadge here today to emphasize the role of women in the Presidential campaign of Jimmy Carter.

Cooki Lutkefedder, national cordina-tor of the 51.3 Percent Committee, the women's effort to elect Mr. Carter and women's enort to elect MI. Carler and his running mate, Senator Walter F. Mondale, said: "It is our intention to have the women swing the vote throughout the country."

There were a few gentle digs at the menfolk. Representative Lindy Boggs of Louisiana, mistress of ceremonies, welcomed the women and told them she was "glad you brought your lovely, attractive, belpful, efficient husband." But the affair was generally as militantly feminist as a Tupperware party. Mrs. Boggs observed that Joan Mon-dale, one of the speakers, was "learning to cook grits, and learning how to like it." And the guest of honor, Rosalynn Carter, said apologetically that "Lindy looks so good and I look like the end of a week of hard campaigning."

One Lone Pickup Truck The crowd of about 400, paying $51.30 a couple, was described as "the station wagon set" by an Atlanta reporter. And indeed, there was hut one lone pickup truck on the 2,500-acre Talmadge farm, among the Oldsmo-biles, Lincolns and a pair of Rolis-Royce

The guests ate seven pigs, cooked over an open pit of charred oak; 42 gallens of Brunswick stew, stirred in an old iron washpot with a pick handle; eight gallons of water-melon rind pickles; another eight of mixed sweet pickels: 40 pounds of cole slaw and 600 slabs of combread.

loside the farmhouse, Senator Talmadge greeted friends and chatted amiably with a reporter about the farm, the South and Jimmy Carter.

"This place was built in 1830," he said, "and it's one of the places General Sberman forgot to burn wheo he marcbed through here to the sea. But marcoed through here to the sea. But bere are some of the tokens he left." He profferd a small giass box. Inside it were three chunks of lead, gray with age. "Mini-balls," said the Seoator. "Dug them out of the walls. And around here are the remoants of breast-works of the Confederate Army."

A Tennessee Walker?

"It's my wife's party," the Seoator said. "But we support Jimmy Carter, of course. Georgians support bim."

Outside, a state trooper, Mike Crowder gave children rides around the farm on a wagon hitched to a donkey. At least he thought it was a donkey. "I oever really had that much cootact with 'em," he said. "Could be a Tennessee Walker for all 1 know."

He told a reporter: "You make sure Jimmy Carter gets a copy of this, now." Down under the big, yellow-striped teot where the speakers were appearing, Senator Talmadge was being given equal time with the women. He was telling them how General Sberman did not burn his house. And be said that for the first time since the Civil War Southerners would have a chance to elect a Southerner President.

"And on Nov. 3," he said. "J hope to pick up the newspapers and read that Jimmy Carter has been elected President, that Reconstruction is over -that the South is readmitted to the Uoion.

Optimism on Agreement Fades in Auto Talks

DETROIT. Oct. 3 (UPI)-Earlier optimism that a new contract agreement would be reached in the 19th day; of the United Automobile Workers' strike against the Ford Motor Company faded today as bargainers beaded into a late evening session.

It was the third consecutive day that begotiations stretched into the evening, but one source indicated the session today would not turn into a marathon neeting that would signal an upcoming agreement in the nationwide strika by 70,000 workers.

Sources continued to indicate, however, that oo new major stumbliog blocks to agreement were raised during the day.

But they said a few of the issues were proving tougher than had been expected. While bargaining continued under a virtual news blackout, spokesmen did say shortly before 9 P.M. that the bargainers had brokeo ioto two committees, ooe dealing with economic issues and the other with nonecocomic matters. Asked to characterize the late Sunday session, a U.A.W. spokesman said, "I don't know if this is the final push."

Senator Durkin Is '76 Hero' Of Consumer Federation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (UPI)-The Consumer Federation of America today, named Senator John A. Durkin, Democrat of New Hampshire, its only 1976 "Con-sumer hero" in the Senate but called 15 Senators "consumer zeroes," for "never having voted for the consumer position." Five other Secators, including Edward I. Kennedy, Democrat of Massachusetts, and Edmund S. Muskie, Democrat of Maine, oever voted against the consumer posi-tioo but "did not score 100 percent be-cause they were absent one or more times," the natioo's largest organized consumer group said. The other three were Secontors Thomas J. McIntyre, Demo-crat of New Hampshire; James Abourezk, Democrat of South Dakota, and Gaylord elson, Democrat of Wisconsin.

The federation said that "consumer. eroes are those members of Congress who never voted for the consumer posi-tion on 14 key consumer votes in the Sen-ate and 11 in the House."

Seoate "zeroes" were James L. Buckley, Conservative-Republican of New York, Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Clif-ford P. Haosen of Wyoming, Paul J. Fannio of Arizona, James M. 8-Volume Record of Hearings That Were Never Held

By HAROLD M. SCHMECK Jr. Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3-A Senate appropriations subcommittee has pubhished a voluminous record, complete with remarks by senators and witnesses, of 12 days of hearings that were never held.

The phantom sessions were part of 24 days of hearings scheduled for January, February and March on the budgets for the fiscal year 1977 for the Depertments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare and related agencies A $56.1 billion appropriations bill covering these budgets was passed Thursday over the President's veto and became law.

It is common practice on Capitol Hill for written statements to be inserted, as if they had been spoken, in the Congressional Record and in transcripts of hearings. But persons who have followed Congress closely for years could not remember another time when the record of a whole set of hearings bad been faked.

The hearings that exist only on the record had been canceled because of the press of time and, in some cases, because Government agencies failed to produce all of the written testimony and data requested.

A chronology prepared by the Sub-committee on Labor, Health, Education, and Welfare of the Senate Appropriatioos Committee showed approximately 12 days of "live" hearings that did take place and 12 days that were only on the record. In some cases part of one day was "live" and part "record."

Chatty Welcoming Remarks

When the eight volumes of bearing records, totaling more than 4,500 pages were printed, however, hearings that had been canceled appeared to be just as "live" as the others. There was no way to distinguish between them. Records of the canceled hearings were complete with the numbers of the rooms in which they ostensibly were held, commencement and adjournment times and ohaty welcoming remarks by the presiding senators. For example, the record of the canceled hearing on the $2 billion hudget of the National Institutes of Health states that it began at 10 A.M. Tuesday, Feb. 3 in room 1223 of the Everett McKinley Dirksen Office building with Senator Warren G. Magnuson, Democrat of Washington, presiding and Senators Edward W. Brooke, Republican of Massachusetts, and Richard S. Schweiker, Republican of Pennsylvania, present.

The record quotes Senator Magnuson as saying: "The subcommittee will come to order. Dr. Donald Fredrickson, the new director of the National Insti-tutes of Health, is with us today—as are all of the institute and program directors."

In fact, not one of them was present, not even the chairman and his subcommittee colleagues. What was printed in the record was simply the texts of remarks and testimony prepared in advance for the event.

In a hearing listed in the prioted record as having occurred later that week, the air of verisimilitude was heightened by the concluding state- (canyon on July 31.

ment: "Whereupon, at 4:10 P.M. Thursday, Feb. 5, the subcommittee was recessed. The staff chronology listed no live hearings on Feb. 5, but three "record" hearings-those covering the Alcobol, Drug Abuse and Meotal Health Administratioo, the Natiooal Institute of Mental Health and the Health Resources Administration.

In answer to a query a few days ago, Senator Magnusoo said that be and his colleagues did not know until they saw the printed volumes bow the bearing record had been edited. He said the record totaled more than 4,500 pages and had to be seot to the printer oo a particularly tight deadline.

Looking for New Jobs

The Senator described the editing as "an ioexcusable mistake made by a staff member." He said that it would not happen again and that the person or persons responsible would be looking for new jobs. "We just assumed the staff would send it down [to the printer] the way it should be sent down," said Senator Magnusoo. Harley M. Dirks, chief of the subcommittee professional staff, said that the normal procedure for hearings was to obtain testimony and supporting data in written form from witnesses before a session as well as prepared state-

On the Kurfurstendamm in West Berlin, the bookstores are up to Saul Bellow's latest novel, "Hum-Boldt's Gift," in English or German. A stroll along the main streets of Berlin's two Germanys is a return to the past of the city's tawdry 20's and wartime 40's. In West Berlin, prosperity has re-placed originality, and the symbol of cross-cultural enlightenment is the plastic spoon at the popular American hamburger chain here. In East Berlin, peopla are still lining up for ordinary consumer items in the sbadow of monn-ments celebrating the city's Soviet Liberators.

The omnipreseot Berlin Wall, which is now being reinforced with prestressed concrete, is a noexit sign for East Germaos and more: a literary dividiog line that encircles books with barbed wire and forbids free passage in the realm of ideas.

'A Piece of Grit'

Speaking in Germany several years ago, Graham Greene ob-served that the duty writers owe society is to be "a piece of grit in the state machinery." Crossing Checkpoint Charlie in both direc tions, an American can ancounter surprisingly frank talk about the machinery of bureacracy and the occasional efforts to throw a book over the wall. But little grit. Günter Grass, author of "The Tin Drum," "The Dog Years" and other oovels, lives in West Berlin. He is a Social Democrat, although highly critical of the shortcomings of the Bonn Government. He has never been published in East Germany. He and Heinrich Böll, a Nobel Laureate in Literature, are considered West Germany's foremost writers-"The wall by now is not just a symbol but a reality," he says. "We have all learned to live with it. In the last four years, I've been able to visit friends on the other side. But I would not want to live there for a simple reason: I couldn't be published."

Alternative is Needed

Mr. Grass believes that freedom in the West is relative eveo though thre is no censorship. He com-pares West Germany's limitatioos to those of the United States, which be calls a rich country with "millions of underdogs" who lack social and economic equality.

"The East is a closed society, he says, "but that should not blied us to our own shortcomings. What we need is an alternative without the influences of either Wash-ington or Moscow. I think that Genevieve Bujold Is standing in the garden, dressed in a red nightgown. She is looking fiercely at the moon and saying: "Jowl, jowl."

. Why is she saying that?

Because, in the new movie, "Alex and the Gypsy," which opened yesterday at the Sutton Theater, she plays a gypsy. And "jowl, jowi," we are told, is what gypsies say when they want to get pregnant.

.It is a small point, but it is a fair sample of the kind of ludicrousness that repeatedly overtakes "Alex," a movie that works away at being wooderful, funny and romantic. Once in a while it succeeds, but more often it is like the star Engfish pupil in a Borneo grammar school reciting the witches' lines from "Macbeth." The sounds are there, more or less, but the emphases are wildly off.

"Alex" is about a bail bondsman, a man who puts up surety that people facing a trial will show up for it, and protects his risk by keeping. a close watch on them. Alex, played by Jack Lemmon, is a crabby, cynical man whose pride in his peculiar work is masked by a flood of black bumor.

Alex's carefully controlled life Mark's carefully controled inte was knocked askew just once. Maritza, running away from her arranged gypsy wedding, attached berself to him. Her unreserved and enthusiastic passion foundered on bis cragginess, and she walked out. When the movie opens, Maritza is back, this time awaiting sentencing for stabbing her thuggish busband.

She bees Alex to bail her out for the four days before sentencing; gypsies die in jail, she tells him. He hesitates, then puts up the bail. The balance of the movie is de-voted to the four days they spend together. He is a watchdog grad-ually defanged by love: she, the defanger, turns the watchdog into something like a racing whippet.

Except for ao awkward use of flashbacks showing the earlier relationship of Alex and Maritza, the film is well constructed and well paced. There are some lovely details: for example, Alex's disen-chanted grilling of a potential customer, a horrendous young maniac arrested for setting fire to someone who annoyed him. "Ar-Alex decides. "That's a bailable offense."

The central relationship, the dismantling of a sour principle of order by black-haired, black-eyed Life Force, is hardly a novelty, but it has possibilities and sometimes it is touching.

But oeither of the principals brings it off. Miss Bujold is a good actress if she bas a compelling energy on the screep. But she is quite wrong in the part. It's not merely her catered acceot; as if "jowl, jowl" and an erractic de-letion of the definite article were eoough to establish the gypsy. More seriously, her turnituousmore seriously, her turmituous-ness is only flamboyance. It lacks the stolidity, the reserve that is essential to any representation of gypsy passion. She comes close to resembling the American tourist shown dancing Flamenco in sherry ads, her arms raised a fatal 3 inches too high.

Jack Lemmon, scruffy, tough and vulnerable, has a role that is modeled on a Sam Spade or a Philip Marlowe. The object is to be a Noble Wreck. But Mr. Lem-mon lacks the assurance, the self-denial for wrecked nobility. He keeps letting the shlemiel in, and the tension out. There is an es-sential difference between irony and clowning, but Mr. Lemmon doesn't manage it.

"Of course, in some cases I think it is the Government that is being anti-Socialist. But doo't forget: in West Germany, you have another kind of censorship-the publisher will only put out a book that will make money." Mr. Becker believes in both the literature and life in East Germany but adds: "The slogan of our so-ciety is, "dictatorship of the pro-letariat." You can't forget one word in that phrase."

Literary Influences

Günter Kunert, poet and novel-ist, also lives in East Berlin. He is in the writers union and the Communist Party but is not active in either one. "I am only active in writing," he says." He offered no comment about the wall. But he said that be joined the party after the war because it resisted Hitler most strnogly. He prefers living in East Germany because "I am a kind of born anti-Fascist and, also , relations between peo-ple are better in the East-life is made up of people, not material things." As a poet, Mr. Kunert is less interested in political affairs than in literary influences. "My spiritual fathers were Carl Sand-burg and Edgar Lee Masters," be says. "They cama from the people wrote about people." Although the Berlin wall bas sensitized writers in the East and West, publishers in Germany are always wary that their freedom can be limited by Government fiat. It bas happened before.

Threat to Freedom

The newest threat to freedom The newest threat to freedom in West Germany is a revised sec-tion of the penal code, called 88a, that was approved a few weeks ago. It is designed to prevent the publication and sale of books that provoke violence and encourage acts of terror and crime. German writers and nublichers beligne that writers and publishers believe that, if the courts encourage the police to seiza books because of their alleged provocation, everything from detective stories to historical works could be hanned. It has oc-curred already in one case, now under appeal. A book titled "Haymarket," about the riots in the last century in the United States, was confiscated by the police in Landshut, Bavaria. The excuse was that a description of the historical event might inspire terrorists in West Germany almost a century later. If this reasoning prevails, publishers here feel, it could mean a refueling of the book-burning meo-tality in the Third Reich.

The music is said to be "Songs of the Humpback Whale." Ah! Now is that the name of a new rock group, the latest score by George Crumb, or a sound collage of a humpbacked whale ainging the songs naturalists most like to hear? But what one beard was the sound of waterfalls and waves, with vague juogle souods. Odd. The choreography also had a certain jungle air to it, suggesting something of the "Me Tarzan, You Jane!" concept.

It also suggested those sinuous, cleaving duers that John Butler has so much made his own. Indeeed, remembering Mr. Butler's duet of paradise lost, "After Eden." rather than "Synapse," Miss Steele might have considered calling her work "Before After Eden." Like everything else this Utah company gave this season, "Synepse" was beautifully done. What good dancers they are. dating from 1898 when he was still a Yale student and rewritten in 1923, is astonishing for its anticipation of ideas that came to dominate our century: overlaid rhythms, clashing tonalities, microtones and a disregard for traditional harmony.

Dvorak's "The American Flag," writteo in 1893 on commission from the wealthy woman who invited bin to head a New York conservatory, is the Czech composer's Op. 102 but a thoroughly pedestrian piece. It wins by a couple of lengths over Wagner's "Amer-ican Centennial March," but anything would, Wagner's piece sounds like cynical claptrap, Dvorak's like sincere claptrap. The Buffalo performance, essisted by the Cornell University Glee Club and Chorus, spared the audience the full impact of the cantata; the text, by Joseph Rodinen Drake, was not printed in the program book.

The Cornell singers, though often hard put to handle the ahifting rhythms and overlapping tonalities of Ives, weot at the Dvorak with red-blooded vigor. David Evitts was a splendidly resonant baritone soloist end Joseph Evans's tenor took some high pessages in stride, though quite nasally. However, "The American Flag," should not be unfurled often, and the performance could not disguise that fact.

Mr. Thomas opeoed with a subdued but evocative reading of lves's "Decoration Day" and closed with Tchaikovsky's Fourth Symphony in a scrappy, routine performence.

Emergency Fund-Raising Effort Seeks to Prevent Disbanding of the Modern Troupe

By ANNA KISSELGOFF

The Paul Taylor Dance Company which announced two weeks ago that it was "disbanding indefinitely" because of financial difficulties, has become the focus of an emergency fund-raising effort that includes the National Endowment for the Arts, Betty Ford, Joanne Woodward, a group of business executives and Washington impresario. A special season has been scheduled to provide work for the internationelly known modern dance troupe.

The one-week engagement at Wash ngton's Lisner Auditorium Nov. I-6 will open with a gala benefit at which Miss woodward, the film actress who is also a member of the Taylor company's board, will appeer with Paul Newman and other personalities. Mrs. Ford, who has underscored her interest in modern dence with similar appearances, "has sent her ex-pression of support and will be honorary chairman." according to Robert Yesselman, the company manager, Patrick Hayes and Dougles Wheeler of the Wash-ington Performing Arts Society, a non-profit impresario, will present the engagement.

At the same time, through a special grant by its cheirman. Nancy Hanks, the national endowment has made what it calls en emergency challenge grant of $17,500 to the Taylor company. Under the terms of the grant, the amount must be matched on a 3-to-1 basis. "To receive $17,500, we must raise $52,500 and this will give us $70,000," said Mr. Yesselman.

Deficit of $50,000

Mr. Yesselman snnounced on Sept. 20 that the abrupt cancellation of a South American tour by an Argentine promoter had left the company with no incoming funds to meet operating expenses. In addition, the company has a $50,000 deficit from its recent Broadway seasons.

"Since then," he said, "there bas been great outpouring of individual response. For instance, the stage doorman at the Billy Rose Theater, where the company performed in June, sent back a week's selary."

In addition to the endowment grant, the most significant response came from the National Corporate Fund for Dance, which seeks business support for eight major dance companies. Judith Jedlicka, the fund's executive director, said she had already received pledges of support from Exxon, the Harris Foundation, the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company, Reader's Digest and Young & Rubicam International. Charles McCabe Jr., vice president for marketing at Menufacturers fanover, will serve as volunteer director for a fund-raising campaign.

A reform of the company's business practices, record-keeping and fund-raising will be implemented through a change of personnel on the company's boerd. John P. Holmes, president of the corporate fund, and a partner in the investment

Recital to Schubert

By PETER G. DAVIS When Aldo Ciccolini returned to the New York concert stage last season efter an absence of 17 years, his program was drawn primarily from the French piano literature with which he has become identified through his many recordings, particularly the music of Erik Satie. Saturday night, Mr. Ciccolini was back again for a recital at the Grace Rainey Rogers Auditorium, but this time he devoted himself entirely to Schubert, the two sets of Impromptus and the composer's final Piano Sonata in B flat. Few artists like to be pigeonholed, and one can sympathize with Mr. Ciccolini's desire to prove bimself in a different repertory. As matters turned out, however, it did not seem to be an especially fortunate choice, for the pianist was only partly successful projecting the spirit of Schubert's music.

On a purely technical level, Mr. Ciccollui's playing had many of the same admirable qualities that distinguish his work in the French school. His keyboard manner was invariably immaculate and articulate, every note fell nearly into place, while the textural transparency allowed each inner voice and atructural nicety to regiater in full. Even at that, Mr. Ciccolini's rather ahallow tone, interpretive timidity and small-scale drypoint atyle tended to trivialize the Soneta, which is, after all, a piece of considerable emotional weight. The eight Impromptus left a better impression. Here again the approach was perhaps too prim and proper to savor all the deeper nuances of these multifaceted statements, but at least Mr. Ciccolini's fleet fingerwork and airy grace brought out much of the music's inherent charm and lyrical spontaneity.

able virtues and its limitations. But first two ancillary thoughts. The impact of a Mahler symphony heard live in a concert hall, especially if you haven't heard one in a few months, is simply enormous. There is oo way that such a sound can be captured on a high-fidellty system, particularly on the models found in most homes. Second, it is exciting to hear the Fhilharmonic again in a sympathetic acoustical enagain in a sympathetic acoustical en-vironment, and perhaps the excellent playing on Saturday was io part a result of the orcbestra's satisfaction in this regard. The Philharmonic's tone and elegance were not those of an orchestra like the Philadelphia or the Vienna Philharmonic. Instead there was a driving passion in the playing, a fierce commitment. It was rather like the Juilliard String Quartet at its best: some qualities were lost, but the intensity went a long way toward compensating. Referendum in New York to Seek Legalization of 'Las Vegas Nights' to legalize certain types of gambling under the auspices of religious and charitable organizations.

The so-called "Las Vegas nights" were authorized on a local-optioo basis under Constitutioo approved by the voters last year by a tiny margin. After the State Legislature passed eotions and regulations, the City Council the state enabling legislation ambiguous and unrealistic, auhere and similar suburban bodies voted to put the issue on the November ballot. The state legislation was designed to bein religious and charitable organizations to raise funds and at the same time, through strict supervision, to guard against intrusion by crimical elements. Some of these organizations bave been holding Las Vegas nights illegally with little interference by the police except where there were complaints, hut there have been reports of attempted take-overs by organized crime.

The state law provides that operators of the games must be nonprofit, bona fide religious, charitable, educational, service, veterans or volunteer firemen associations in existence at least three years prior to their application for licenses.

$25 Fee for License

Supervision will be shared by the New York State Racing and Wagering Board and the city's Consumer Affairs Department.

Operators must pay a $25 license fee for each Las Vegas oight with the board getting $15 of this and the city $10. They will split a $50 license fee paid by the owners of the premises where the games are held. And the operators must also elected a Constituent As pay a fee of up to 5 percent of the oet dent and a Parliament.

Among the games permitted are craps, roulette and blackjack. The operators cannot bold more than 12 Las Vegas nights a year and restrictions are also placed on an amendment to the New York State the amounts that can be wagered and won.

> Because City Councilmen and other city officials bere consider the state enabling thorization for the games will not become effective here until Feb. 1. The delay will give the State Legislature time to amend the law.

> Among those urging amendments is Elinor C. Guggenheimer, the city's Con-sumer Affairs Commissioner. She told the City Council recently that she believed some of the restrictions imposed by the state law were unrealistic and unenforceable and might lead to "widespread at-tempts to circumvent the law."

She also noted that her department would be required to hire many more inspectors to enforce the new law and said the city should get the full 5 percent of the net proceeds of the games under the fee provision of the law to meet this and other expenses.

At least 10 communities in Nassau and Suffolk Counties and 13 in Westchester County will bave the Las Vegas nights issue on the ballot in November.

Giants Beaten by Cards, 27-21; 49ers Triumph, 17-6, Over Jets

Morton's Last-Ditch Pass Fails, Ending Comeback Bid

By MICHAEL KATZ al to The New York Tip

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3-The Giants are going home losers again, hut after today's 27-21 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals, they are going home proud and defiant losers. They committed their usual quota of costly penalties (10), made their usual ailly mistakes (once having only 10 men on the field while the Cardinals completed a key third-down pass) and were pushed and shoved up and down Busch Stadium by the Cardinals' superb offensive line

But with only three seconds remaining io the game, they were still in it. A final desperation pass from Craig Morton reached the fingertipa of Walker Gillette io the corner of the Cardinal end zone, but so did the fingertips of Roger Wehrli, whose deflection preserved the third victory in four games for the National Football Conference's Eastern champions.

To their detractors, it might seem as if the Giants just found another way to lose: "Trailing, 27-14, with less than 51/2 minutes to play, the Giants battled hack to lose, 27-21," it could be written.

Kotar Is Standout

Although they never were really in the game until the last few minutes, they refused to do what Giant teams in the recent past have done. They refused to quit. Trailing, 27-14, they drove 69 yards, mostly on short passes to Doug Kotar, the halfback who ran for more than 100 yards last week against Los Angeles and who caught 11 passes today for 132 yards. Marsh White's 2-yard toucbdown run followed by the conversion made it 27-21 with 1 minute 57 seconds remaining in the game.

They just missed recovering an onside kick by Joe Danelo, forced the Cardinals to punt and took possession on their 20 with 35 seconds remainlosing margin of the season, and they managed to score their first toucbdown Eighty yards, 35 seconds: the numbers were against them. in keeping the 49ers scoreless for the first 44 minutes of the 60-minute game.

But the Giants stormed downfield. Morton to Kotar, 11 yards, out of bounds, stopping the clock. Morton to Kotar, 8 yards, out of bounds, And then they almost won: Morton to Kotar, but this time, not out of bounds Kotar skirted the sideline, keeping his eye on Ray Rhodes, the receiver who was blocking downfield for him. Suddenly, from the side, Norm Thompson, a Cardinal cornerback who was running "with my eyes on the clock and just trying to stay on my feet," angled over from the middle of the field and knocked Kotar out of bounds on the St. Louis 31. There were 10 seconds to play. And Then There Were 3 A sideline pass to Gordon Bell gained 8 yards and stopped the clock with three seconds left. "There's not much you can do with three seconds," Morton said afterward.

sacked four times, tried to pass oo first, down from his 40. But Cedrick Hard-man got him, the hall popped loose, and Cleveland Elam plcked it up and ran 31 yards for a touchdown, giving the 49ers a 9-0 lead, which became 10-0 after the conversion.

Namath Again Ineffective

The next sequence was the last for Namath, who wound up with 8 comple-tions in 17 attempts for only 70 yards. Since the five sacks cost 53 yards, the net gain on pass plays was only 17. vsrds while Namath was quarterback

From the punt that followed that Jets' possession, Plunkett took the, 49ers 56 yards in five plays for a 17-0margin. The first play was a long pass that might have connected, but Shafer Suggs, trying to cover Gene Washington, tripped him, so there was a 36-yard pass-loterference penalty? The next pass was caught by Wash-iogton on the 5, and Sam Johnson" eventually punched over from the 1-Now Richard Todd took over at quarterback for the Jets and guided = them through an S0-yard touchdown march He used Ed Marinaro on running plays, but he also threw sharply, finding Rich Caster for 29 yards to the 49er 25, and David Knight for 21 yards to the 1. Morton first looked over the middle, "trying to hit someone fast." Gillette, et 6 feet 5 inches the talkest of the Giant receivers, was heading straight down the left sideline for the end zone. "I know if everyone else was covered I could always try to throw high to Walker," Morton said.

In the end, however, Morton's final pass was not as decisive as his first, the one that was intercepted by Mike Sensibaugh on the Giants' 35 and run back for a touchdown that gave the ly most of the game, but so had Jim Plunkett for the 49ers, which is why the score was still 0-0 as the third quarter neared its end. However, with third down and 12 yards to go on the 49er 45-yard line, Plunkett fired a long pass that was deflected hy John Ehersole, a Jet linebacker, into the hands of Tom Mitchell for a 24-yard gain. All's mysterious absence left ques-tions about whether he actually will quit the boxing ring or will change his mind again, as he did after three previous retirements. Wallace D. Muhammad, spiritual Jeader of the Black Muslim movement in the United States, appeared before a packed house and said, "I expect the American people will join us and ask Muhammad Ali as I have asked Muhammad Ali-retire."

During a half-hour address, he said he urged Ali to retire last week in Istanbul, Turkey, after Ali successfully defended his heavyweight title against Ken Norton. But he said after he publicly made the request, Ali "stumbled around" before he finally said he was through with boxing. He said that Ali received a phone call from Chicago and "may have been going over his bills," and that the announcement of retirement "brought shock among bankers and businessmen and people he had been dealing with." He said he understood Ali had spent the purse from the Norton fight 'before he got it."

If money were Adi's problem, Wallace Muhammad Said, "whatever I got I will give it to him because God has made me more accustomed to suffering than he is."

He said be was "wondering if Muhammad Ali is really indeed retired or whether he is making another empty announcement.

He concluded his speech by saying, "Muhammad Ali, congratulations for taking that stand whether you keep it or not."

Then he walked away from the podium to a huge ovation from the congregation

a horse than the "live" weight represented by the jockey and his pack. Shoe disposed of that notion long ago, and when Forego carried him to the post in the Marlboro Cup. leaden sheets made up more than a quarter of the 137-pound hurden.

On top of that, Belmont had been drenched hy the rain. Nobody has ever said Forego couldn't stand up on a wet track, but slippery footing can be hazardous for a hig horse with a long stride, and this great hull has had bad legs all his life. He was born with a displaced sesamoid (the bone at the rear of the fetlock joint) and this irritated his sesamoid ligament. He had a hind ankle that troubled the veterinarians. Last October both the horse and his trainer, Sherrill Ward, pulled up sore and retired.

"I hope and feel that with the proper rest he could come hack and he a good race horse," the trainer said then, "hut I don't mean six months from now. I mean in a year or 18 months."

It Was Seary

After resting through the winter, Forego was turned over to Frank Whitely Jr., who never rushes his horses but managed to get this one back sooner than anyone had believed go's seventh start and fifth victory of the year. It was his third straight score in the Weather of the year. possible. The Woodward Handicap two weeks ago was Forethird straight score in the Woodward and it brightened the prospect that he would be chosen Horse of the Year for the third time in a row.

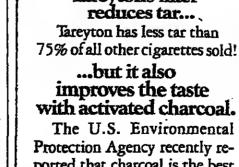

Now there can be no doubt. In the Mariboro he gave 18 pounds to the Kentucky Derby and Travers winner, Honest Pleasure; 28 pounds to a steed named Enchumao, and eight other rivals got concessions in between. On the handicapper's measure, a pound and a half equals one length at a mile and a quarter. Thus Forego was conceding 12 lengths to Honest Pleasure on a moddy track, and about 18 to Enchumao.

Figuring it that way, it turned out that Forego had to make up almost 20 lengths on Honest Pleasure, for after breaking with the leaders he dropped hack to eighth, about eight lengths off the pace.

It will not be easy to forget how he made up that ground. After a mile be was sixth and still almost eight lengths back. Turning into the stretch he was fourth on the extreme outside, traveling farther than anything else and appearing to labor in the slop. Then here he came with that devouring stride, and it was almost frightening. He nailed Honest Pleasuer in the last jump.

Carrying 10 pounds more than any other horse ever carried in the Woodward, he ran a muddy mile and a quarter in 2 minutes flat, one-tifth of a second behind the track record. The track record was set last year in the Brooklyn Handicap. By Forego.

line: 97 victories and 62 defeats, for their hest record since 1964, and an attendance of 2,012,434, a gain of 724,386 in a year and the best since 1950.

The rain also wiped out some last nurrahs for certain members of the cast.

Ed Figueroa missed the chance to pitch his 20th victory and to become baseball's first 20-game winner from Puerto Rico. Catfish Hunter missed the chance to win No. 18, and finished with a 17-15 mark, his worst in aeven summers. Thurman Munson missed any chance of overtaking Lee May of the Baltimore Orioles in producing runs, ending with 105 runs batted in.

However, the elements froze Munson's batting average at .302, and Graig Nettles ended with 32 home runs, becoming the first Yankee to lead the American League in homers since Roger Maris broke Babe Ruth's mark with 61 in 1961.

The rain also cost the Indians a final chance to determine their own standing. They had started the day in a tie for third place with the Boston Red Sox who took matters into their own hands by defeating the Orioles, 3-2, in 15 innings, thereby finishing the season one-half game ahead of Cleveland. Whatever the individual numbers, the

The New York Times/Bar.on Silverican Billy Martin, Yankees' manager, on the dugout steps as final games of the season were rained out.

Yankees rang down the curtain on their long-lost "comeback," something they had agonized over since Yogi Berra led them to the pennant in 1964. After that successful year, they finished sixth, tenth, ninth, then fifth twice before coming into contention. Since 1970, they have finished fourth on three occasions and second twice, and they were third last year.

Carlton Wins 20th, on 3-Hitter, As Phillies Foil Mets' Finale, 2-1

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3-Steve Carlton became a serious candidate for the Cy Young Award today as he won his 20th game of the season by pitching the Philadelphia Philites to a 2-1 victov over the Mets with a three-hit, 12strikeout performance on the final day of the regular season.

Carlton, who has lost seven games, thus became one of five 20-game win-ners contending for the award as the National League's best pitcher. Others are Randy Jones, Jerry Koosman, James Rodney Richard and Don Sutton. Jones led the league with 22 victories, while Sutton and Koosman each had 21. Richard and Carlton finished with

In the battle for home runs, Philadelhia's Mike Schmidt emerged with his third consecutive major-league high by edging the Mets' Dave Kingman, 3S-37. Kingman, however, missed 33 games with a torn ligament in his left thumh. In their final confrontation of the season, Kingman and Schmidt each went hitless, Kingman walked in his first two times at hat, struck out and grounded out in his final appearances. Schmidt walked twice, struck out and flied out. Craig Swan, the loser to Carlton, gave up both runs early, allowing six hits before he was relieved by Nino Espinosa in the fifth inning.

The Mets got two of their three hits off Carlton in the first two innings. The second, in the second inning, was a name run by Pepe Mangual over the left-field fence. The Mets did not get nother hit until Bud Harrelson singled in the eighth.

In one stretch, Cariton retired 14 batters in order, striking out the side in both the sixth and seventh. Control problems cost Swan the two runs that beat him. in the second, he walked Tim McCarver, who in turn was forced at second hy Larry Bowa, But Bowa stole second and scored on a single by Dave Cash. What proved to be the winning run came home in the fifth when Dick Allen walked with two out, stole second and continued on to third when the throw from John Stearns went into center

McCarver, who has caught almost every one of Carlton's games since early May, then singled and Allen scored. The Phillies finished the season with their best attendance, drawing a total of 2,480,150 paying customers. A crowd of 25,632 attended today's finale, in which the Eastern Division champions non their 101st game, the most ever a Philadelphia club. The Phillies will now move to the playoffs against the Cincinnati Reds.

Think about the last loan agreement you had to sign. Chances are, you never fully understood what you were signing. The document was just too long and complex. And filled with too many strange legal phrases. You just had to sign it. And hope for the best.

Citibank has changed all that. With the first loan agreement written for the layman instead of the lawyer.

We've taken out the fine print. Removed the excess language. Eliminated the legal gibberish. And completely revised the format.

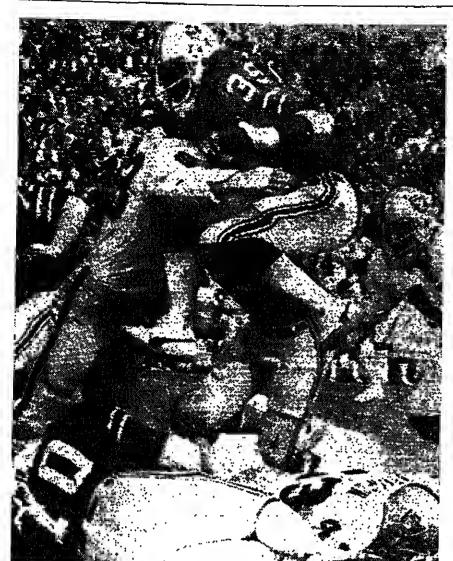

Everything is laid out clearly. In simple words we can all understand. So you know exactly what you have to do to keep your part of the loan bargain. And exactly what we have to do to keep ours.

The Citibank Simplified Loan Agreement. We think everybody has a right to know what he or she is signing. Even if you don't happen to be a lawyer.

But Morton, on his next opportunity, directed a 67-yard drive culminated by Csonka's first score as a Giant and the team's first touchdown by running this

The first of two Jim Bakken field goals put St. Louis ahead, 10-7, and then the Cards really went to work in the second period. Although they had this hall for only one series in the quar-ter, they held it for 10 minutes 46 seconds, driving 92 yards in 20 plays. Terry Metcalf and Jim Otis were bruised much of the day, so their substitutes, Wayne Morris and Steve Jones, ran over and through the Glants.

Jones carried the ball 10 times on that second-period drive for a total of- 45 yards as the Giants' defense willed in field temperatures of more than 90 degrees. It was a costly drive for the Giants, too, as Bobby Brooks. who had been playing well at corner-back, suffered probable torn ligaments In his right knee. There was the likeli-hood of an operation tomorrow, which would put Brooks out for the season.

The Cards began the second half with another long drive, but this time had to settle for a field goal. The Giants, trailing 20-7, came back quick-today," said Coach Bill Arnsparger, almost daring anyone to disagree. "We made some errors, sure, nobody ever played a perfect game. But we stayed after 'em and I'm proud of them. That's all I have to say."

Pat Hughes, the linebacker, said: "I know fens look at the numbers, But I think we're going back to New York [sic] and the fans are going to welcome We've been away for a long time US. and we need their succort.

"They've got to look beyond 0-4 and see there's talent here, there's youth here, there's experience here. I've been here seven years and I honestly believe we have more t2lent, more enthusiasm than ever. And I believe in that man [pointing to Arnsparger].

"Let me tell you. I'm proud to be a part of this football team."

Patriots Rout Raiders, 48-17, Scoring 3d Up.

By AL HARVIN

Steve Grogan and the New England Patriots are "for real." The Oakland Raiders learned this yesterday, when they became the Patriots' third straight upset victim. Grogan passed for three touchdowna and ran for two more in a 48-17 atomping of the previously undefeated Raiders at Schaefer Stadium in Foxboro, Mass.

Last week the Patriots had upset the Pittsburgh Steelers, and the week before the Miami Dolphins.

Darryl Stingley caught two of Grogan's scoring passes, of 21 and 15 yards, and Marlin Briscoe caught the other, a 16-yarder. Grogan's touchdown runs were from 2 and 10 yards out. Jess Phillips, a former Raider, rushed for an 11-yard score, and Andy Johnson burst through for a 2-yard touchdown run. The Patriots' Sam Cunningham gained 101 yarda on 21 carries and dded 94 yards on five pass receptions. With the victory, their third in four outings this aeason, the Patriots have did all last season, when their won-lost record was 3-11. Their only loss this year has been to the Baltimore Colts. New England Scores Early

The Patriots never trailed yesterday, jumping to a 7-0 lead after Steve Zabel. linebacker, had recovered a Clarence Davis fumble at the Oakland 43-yard line. The Patriots turned it into their first toucbdown at 3 minutes 51 seconds of the first period. They also set a club record of 296 yards rushing, 15 yards more than they picked up against Oakland in a victory on Oct. 30, 1966.

The Raiders scored on a 14-yard pass from Ken Stabler to Fred Biletnikoff, a 44-yard field goal by fred Steinfort and a 1-yard sneak by Mike Rae, reserve quarterback.

AMERICAN CONFERENCE Billa 50, Chiefs 17

AT ORCHARD PARK, N.Y .--- O.J. Simpson, the National Focthall League's leading rusher last season, turned in his best performance of this year, running for 130 yards and scoring two touchdowns for Buffalo. Joe Ferguson, the Bills' quarterback, threw three first-half touchdown passes to Bob Chandler to lead Buffalo to the secondhighest point total in the Bills' history. "It feels good to start clicking offensively." said Simpson, who had gained only 105 yards oo 41 carries in his first three games after having sat out the preseason in an effort to be traded to a West Coast team. "I got hit today probably more than I ever had, so I'm still oot as sharp as I want to be."

Colts 42, Buccaneers 17

- AT BALTIMORE-Taking advantage of a "breather" against Tampa Bay. the Colts scored on seven consecutive possessions. Eert. Jones threw two touchdown passes, and Roosevelt Leaks scored twice on 1-yard plunges, as the Colts raised their won-lost record to 3-1. Jones completed 15 of 24 passes for 186 yards before sitting out most of the second half,

Bears 33, Redskins 7

CHICAGO-Bob Aveilini, the

backs, Bill Kilmer and Joe Theismann, six times and shut out the Redskins until the last second of the game. A 47-yard pass-interference peoalty gave the Redskins possession on the Chicago l with a second to play, and Theismann passed to Jerry Smith for the touch-down that averted the sbutout. The Bears' defense leads the league in sacks, with 23. Yesterday Jim Osborne, a tackle, had three of the six.

Bengals 45, Browns 24

AT CLEVELAND - Ken Anderson threw four touchdown passes, of 19 and 30 yards to Lenvil Elliott and 44 and 7 yards to Isaac Curtis, to lift Cincinnati to its third victory of the season in four outings and help the Bengals retain a share of the Central Division lead, with Houston. Although the Ben-gals led by 31-17 at the half, they had to put the game away in the fourth quarter. Cleveland pulled to within 7 in the third period but failed on a key scoring opportunity.

Broncos 26, Chargers 0

AT DENVER-The clash between the AT DERVER—The clash between the two highest—scoring teams in the league this year ended up all Denver as Rich Upchurch set a Bronco record with a 92-yard punt return for a touchdown and caught a 57-yard pass that set up one of Jim Turner's four field goals. down pass running away from a covering linebacker, Larry Gordon, The Rams also had Harris running in key situations and he once ran from the Dolphin 20 to the 3 after taking a backward pass from McCotcheon on one bounce, a legal lateral.

"It was a planned play," said Harris. "No, not the bounce."

Ahead 14-0 and 21-7, Bob Griese was careful and he waited to throw his fifth pass of only 11 attempts until the Rams had tied the score, 21-21, at the beginning of the fourth quarter. His best was a 47-yard touchdown pass to Nat Moore which ied he score, 28-28, midway through the last quarter, Near the end Griese still bad time to set up a field-goal attempt for another tie, but his last two passes were intercepted,

Isiah Robertson, the Ram linebacker. thought his defense played poorly and if that was so then the unbeaten Rams are formidable indeed, judged on their comeback against a strong outfit like the Dolphins. They play the 49ers next, and the rest of the schedule is not taxing.

New England's upset of Oakland, threw the Western Division race into a threeway tie among the Broncos, the Chargers and the Raiders. This was the firs! shutout scored by Denver in five years.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE Cowboys 28, Seahawks 13

AT SEATTLE-The Seahawks. led at quarterback by Jim Zorn, the last player cut by Dallas in 1975, mounted 72-yard and 71-yard scoring drives to take e 13-0 lead and throw a scare into the Cowboys early in the second quarter. Then Roger Staubach ralled Dallas with two touchdown passes, and two running backs, Robert Newhouse and Doug Dennison, each added a score to keep the Cowboys undefeated. Stau-bach's two touchdown passes went $ yards to Drew Pearson and 25 yards to Charlie Young. Zorn threw touch-down passes of 9 yards to Don Testerman and 4 yards to Steve Largent.

Eagles 14, Falcons 13

AT ATLANTA-On fourth down and with only 4.21 remaining, Mike Boryla threw a 9-yard touchdown pass to Charlie Smith, and Horst Muhlmann kicked the winning point-after. Then the Eagles blocked a 42-yard field goal attempt by Nick Mike-Mayer, with 6 seconds left, to preserve the victory. Atlanta had taken a 13-0 lead on an 11-yard scoring pass by Steve Bart-to take on a quarterback, Bert Jones, who can pass even better than Harris.

Islanders Close Exhibition Slate With a Flourish

By JOHN S. RADOSTA. Special to The New York Times

UNIONDALE, L.L., Oct. 3-The New York Islanders, happy to finish a tough preseason grind, wrapped up their exhibition schedule tonight with a brisk trouncing of the Atlanta Flames, 6-2, at Nassau Coliseum.

"We should be celebrating with champagne," said Bob Bourne, an Jslander center who did a good evening's work. He meant celebrating the fact that the Islanders survived a stretch of 10 games, seven on the road and four in the last five nights.

After rounding out the preseason schedule with a won-lost-tied record of 1-4-2, the Islanders are looking toward the start of the National Hockey League season as a form of relief. They will open Thursday night against the Flyers in Philadelphia.

The Islanders started slowly tonight, but they warmed up to a vigorous pace and capped the game with a flourish, two goals in the last 2 minutes 10 sec-onds.

Nystrom Scores a Pair

Boh Nystrom, a tense right wing who seems incapable of relaxing, scored two New York goals. Garry Howott, Bill Machillan, Denis Potvin and Ed Westfall accounted for the others.

Atlanta's goals were scored hy the bearded "Cowboy," Bill Flett, a former Flyer, and Eric Vail, who put in a power-play goal while the Flames had a two-man advantage in the third period.

Coach Al Arbour was just as glad to end the preseason because he has had a bunch of injuries with which to cope. And hecause of the uncertainty of recoveries, he will oot decide which three men to cut from the roster until Wednesday.

Denis Potvin was one of those who looked forward to starting the season. "You don't reach top form until you play those pressure games," be said. "Now we're getting bungry and tensed

Glenn (Chico) Resch played the entire game in goal for the Islanders, and mode some stylish saves with foot, mitt and stick as the Flames took 22 shots at him,

Long Mantle Homer

Off Chance Recalled Manager Bill Rigney, of the San Francisco Glants and Bob Rodgers, a coach, were talking about some of the long home runs hit hy Mickey Mantie. Rodgers recalled ooe of the 35 homers Mantie hit in 1964 when Rodgers was catching a 20-game winner, Dean Chance of the California Angels.

"Chance pitched 11 shutouts that season, four of them against the Yao-kees," said Rodgers. "We were playing in Los Angeles then and Chance had a string of 50 scoreless innings against the Yankees. The string ended when ntle homered and woo the game 1-0. Just before the homer, Mantle turned to me and said, 'I can't hit the stuff he's throwing.' Next swing he put the ball out of the park."

Coach Hayes Defends His Late-Punt Strategy

By GORDON S. WHITE Jr.

The buck didn't stop where one might have expected it to when Ohio State's head coach. Woody Hayes, explained the Buckeyes' failure to gamble the last time they had the ball Saturday in their 10-10 tie with the University of California, Los Angeles.

"If we bad gambled and lost, U.C.L.A. would have been within one good pass-play of a field goal," Hayes said: Then, letting the buck pass back down the line, Hayes added, "My assistant coaches advised me of this. I listened to them.

Hayes's assistants can be forgiven for recommending that Ohio State punt on fourth-and-4 with 35 seconds to go and the ball on the Ohio State 47. Fail-ure would have given the Bruins a chance for another field goal. The big question is: Why didn't Ohio pass once in its last seven plays that started with a first down on the Buckeyes' 20 with a minutes 48 seconds to go? Not only did Obio fail to get within striking dis-tance of a field goal or touchdown, but the clock kept running while the Buckeyes kept running.

Some Boos From the Crowd

There were some boos from the crowd at Ohio Stadium. But this didn't force Hayes to order a pass, and another hig game ended in a tie with one of the combatants liable to be accused of not trying hard ecough to break it. It recalled a game of 10 years ago when Notre Dame and Michigan State played a 10-10 tie and Ara Parseghian was accused of not letting his Irish team gamble for a chance at victory. Hayes's decision not to gamble assured the Buckeyes of failing to win for the secood straight week. Ohio State has not gone two straight Saturdays without a victory since the eighth and ninth weeks of the 1971 season when Hayes's team lost to Michigan State and Northwestern.

Alabama, like Ohio State, ran into a bit of misfortune that it has not suffered for years. The Crimson Tide was shut out for the first time in six years as Georgia won, 21-0. Georgia is now favored to win the Southeastern Con-ference title, which has been the property of Bear Bryant's Alabama teams for the last five seasons. And this year the Sugar Bowl host spot goes with the S.E.C. championship. Georgia's defensive unit is a strong group of small men who have earned the nickname "The Runts." Some of them doo't appreciate the nickname, but Bill Krug, the Bulldogs' strong safe-

Espadas Stops Lopez For Flyweight Crown

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3 (AP)-Guty Espadas, a 20-year-old from the Yuca-tan, defeated Alfonso Lopez of Panama, the World Boxing Association flyweight champion, taking away his title with a knockout in the 13th round last night. Espadas weikhed 1091/2 pounds, ty, said, "Some of our guys resent. being called, 'The Runts.' Not me. One. thing you can't measure is guts and we're bigger than most teams in that respect." Up at West Poin, the brightest light in the darkest days of the Military Academy's recent history is being provided by a quarterback who has the cool nerve of a platoon leader walking right into enemy fire. Leamon Hall, 📆 his latest version of an 11th-hour result cue mission, tossed a 2-point conversion pass to bis favorite receiver, Clennie Brundidge, to beat Stanford by. 21-20. That winning play came 1minute 18 secoods before the final gun. Now Army has a chance for a really big upset when the Cadets play at Penn State on Saturday. The Nittany Lions joined Alabama and Ohio State in . uncommon misfortune. Beaten by Kentucky 22-6, Penn State has a threegame losing streak for the first time, since 1964 and for the first time since Joe Paterno became head coach in ...

Bell, Dorsett in Race

In the race for the Heisman Tropby, the two leading candidates kept right at it with Ricky Bell of Southern Calle. fornia rushing for 119 yards as the Trojans beat lowa, 55-0, and Tooy Dores, sett carrying for 129 yards as Pitt de feated Duke, 44-31, Bell left his one-sided game early in the third periods, while Dorsett went most of the way.

Now Bell has 661 yards rushing in four games and Dorsett 535 in four... Dorsert has closed within 518 yards of Archie Griffin's career rushing record of $,177 yards and, barring injury, should set a record within four games at bis present average of 133:75 yards per game. Rutgers and Boston College remained undefeated as did Pittsburgh as the Eastern scene contioued its topsy-turvy course. Who would ever have imagined that there would be so many unbeaten major Eastern football teams without Penn State being one of them? The Arc is oot just another race. It is Europe's showpiece for the fastest and sturdiest horses. It is run over 2,400 meters (a mile and a balf) on a demanding course that winds upward and then downward into a sharp turn. Then comes the long stretch run on the impeccably kept course, a run to the first-place purse of $240,000 of the total money of more than $400,000.

The race had enough prestige to at-tract a field of 20 horses, the latest clothes fashions, and the president of the New York Racing Association. Dinny Phipps. At laast 20 busloads of racegoers came from England, and they brought with them enough money to make "their" borse, Bruni, the 2-to-1 favorite. Young Women Obstetricians Find That They're in Demand

By GEORGIA DULLEA

 $-f_{\text{amily/style}}$

A sad-eyed woman in her 50's stepped into examining booth No. 14 at Jacobi Hospital's obstetrics and gynecology clinic the other day and beamed at the sight of Teresa Suarez. "Oh, a lady doctor!" the woman exclaimed, "I'm so Incky."

Now Dr. Suarez wears blue jeans instead of a white coat. And she looks more like a teen-ager than a 27-yearold senior resident. Still, she and other female gynecologists in the city clinics are widely viewed as sympathetic and competent medical figures by their patients.

"Certain women wait hours and hours until 1 can see them," Dr. Suarez said. "It's not that I'm a great doctor, it's just that they feel they can tell me things they would not tell a man. Like, 'I have pain on intercourse. Maybe I'm abnormal.' A lot of women think they're abnormal and that somehow it's their fault."

Dr. Suarez has not always had such rapport with patients. "No," she acknowledged, laughing. "Years ago, when I first came here, women would look at me and say, 'Sbe's going to do iny Caesarean?' Now they smile and sign the consent. Now they accept us as surgeons.'

The patients In Dr. Marcia Storch's Manhaitan office are mostly middle-class professional women and far more fashionably dressed than those at the clinic. Even so, the message sounds much the same.

A More Relaxed Attitude

"Many women, even those over 35, tell me, 'l never dreamed I'd be com-"ing to a woman doctor, but my needs , nren't being met," said the 43-year-old Dr. Storch, adding that these needs may range from counseling on the benefit-risk ratio of various birth control methods to treatment of simple trual cramps.

"They're reluctant to talk about menstrual cramps to men," she explained, "because it sounds like they're complaining or it may reinforce cul-tural attitudes that women are incompetent. With women, they feel you know what they're talking about."

Despite such doctor-patient relationships, and despite the feminist health movement, which has served to make women more aware of their bodies and more critical of male gynecologists, the assumption persists that, deep down, most women prefer those male doctors to female ones.

Sure, you even bear that in medical school," a recent graduate said. "It's the Great White Father Fantasy." The fact is that two out of three women express no preference between a male or female gynecologist, accord-ing to a 1973 Gallup Poll for the American Cancer Society

Of the more than 1,000 women interviewed, 32 percent did have a prefer-ence and most favored male doctors. Common reasons given were "I've al-ways had one" and "men are more ex-A smaller number found female doctors "more understanding" or found treatment "less embarrassing."

Influenced by Own Experiences

Are women doctors "more understanding"? As scientists, they admit there is no bard evidence to support the notion. As women, bowever, they say that their experiences as patients by her first name, they say. Naturally, they allow her to watch the pelvic examination in the mirror. Naturally, they warm the speculum.

of male gynecologists have infinenced

But, as Dr. Lynne Reuss, a 26-yearold chief resident at Jacobi and Albert Einstein Hospitals noted: A warm speculum is just one variable in the equation. Having a doctor you can talk to, a doctor who doesn't come across with preconceived ideas about what you should be doing or thinking is more important than whether a speculum is warm or cold."

Only 5 Percent Are Women

Ironically, at a time when most women express at least an open mind on doctors of their own sex, roughly 95 percent of the country's obstetriciangynecologists (or, in the popular shortened form, ob/gyns) are men. "But the women are coming-they're in the pipeline," said Warren Pearse, executive director of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, referring to the waves of women entering medical schools.

According to the 1976 figures, however, only 1,785 or 5.5 percent of the 31,992 female physicians are ob/gyns. By contrast, 16.8 percent are specializing in pediatrics and 10.5 percent are specializing in psychiatry, especially child psychiatry.

Medical women have always clustered in such fields, in part because they tend to be more accepting of women and in part because they of-fer the prospect of part-time residencies and more regular working hours. So, it's easier to be a doctor and have a family at the same time. The Midnight Baby Problem

In ob/gyn it's still not easy. Babies, after all, do not always arrive during office hours. But one increasingly popular way of handling the midnight baby problem is to have e group prac-tice such as the one Dr. Barbara Mc-Cormack and three male partners have in Englewood, N. J.

"It's the only sane way to live," insisted Dr. McCormack, who began her practice last year at the age of Special to The New York Times LONDON, Oct. 3-After four days of geotlemanly bidding, buyers from all over Europe, the United States and Australia went home from one of Christie's most successful wioe auctioos ever.

"Never before has such a big range of chateaus, vintages and types of wine been offered at auctions," said Michael Broadbent, the director of Christie's wine department,

The atmosphere was more like a men's club than a sale room as bidders made their selection from the 300,000 bottles up for auction in the sale, which 1 $1,088,000 wheo it ended last Friday.

The sale's top price was paid by an Australian of gout, described the club's cellar as "a very good wine merchant, Len Evans, who paid $510 for a one." single bottle of an 1825 Chateau Gruaud-Larose, Wine from three different sources were offered at the auction.

"It was always the policy at regimental dinners to serve sherry, white wine, claret, and either two glasses of vintage port, or one of vintage port and a second of brandy," he said when reached by telepbone.

"But the toast at the end of the meal was given with port," be said. "We used about 600 bottles a year until circumstances forced us to cut back."

Prices for the extensive variety of wines at the auction ranged from $24.65 a case for a 1969 Chateau Beauregard to $204 a case for a 1967 Chateau d'Yquem. Because of the coormous number of bottles at auction. Christie's opened 200 bottles, more than ever before, for the pre-sale tastings which took place in Amsterdam and Geneva, as well as London.

37. "You can plan your life without worrying about being called out in the middle of the night."

But first the doctor must survive the four-year residency program, grueling in terms of time and training. Dr. Yvonne Thornton, a 28-year-old chief resident; reflected on the program in the labor and delivery room of Roosevelt Hospital the other night and concluded that it. was not at all surprising that vast numbers of women were not becoming ob/gyns.

Some Defer Childbearing

"With this new awareness of women it's fashioneble to speculate about this in a living room having cocktails," Dr. Thornton said, "but when you're bust-ing your bead here 12 days straight for 210 hours and when you're on night duty every other night, you realize how demanding this specialty is and what it does to your life."

One thing it does to the lives of married residents, like Dr. Thornton is postpone childbearing plans. "Our department head is very lib-erzi," she said, "and a lot of women residents say, 'Would you mind if I became pregnant?' He says, 'Fine, if you can do the work. I don't care.'" But Dr. Thornton doesn't even bother to ask. "Listen," she said, "In this program you don't even have time to conceive. This is great contraception."

The bottles opened for tasting included the top young wines and some of the very oldest. "We opened one bottle from 1865," said Mr. Broadbent. "When you think that that was the year Lincoln was assassinated, it tasted very good indeed."

Fall, When Leaves Turn Color and Suntans Fade

By ANGELA TAYLOR

T. S. Eliot notwithstanding, most women would vote October, rather than April, as the cruelest month. For their looks, anyway. Summer was all carefree and back-to-nature, now with store windows full of fall clothes, summer's face begins to look all wrong. Fading suntans and bedraggied hair are not nearly as attractive as they were when they were fresh at the beginning of July.

The beauty people are, of course, ready to help women face the new season. Start with bair. Most good salons bave treatments to get the shine back and their coloring areas have ideas about treating sun-bleached hair. Hair styles haven't changed drastically since spring. However, if one is planning to duck under one of the boods or tight caps promised for fall. then one needs the sort of baircut that will bounce back after the head covering comes off.

The Gerard Bollei salon, at 35 West 57th Street, has a bairdo it calls the "convertible." It involves short hair cut to follow its own wave pattern that can be brushed into several arrangements. It begins with a sort of cap affair that can be brushed into curls or swooped up the back in several ways. A woman handy with a brush and blow dryer should be able to manage it without much fuss.

The La Coupe shop at 695 Madison Avenue, near 62d Street, loves knots. Not the macramé kind, but ways of winding little knots of hair on the forehead or temples, while the rest of the hair is slicked tightly to the bead. If looking like an Erté flapper of the 1920's is your thing, you might look into bow they are done.

The Soul Scissors salons are the brainchild of the Seligman & Latz chain, which operates many department store salons throughout the country. As the name implies, Soul Scissors specializes in bairdos for black women.

The first of these salons in Manhat-tan recently opened at 110 East 55th Street and offers all beauty services, including makeup. One of the special conveniences of the shop is its hours: from 8 A.M. until 10 P.M. and from 10 A.M. to 6 P.M. on Sundays, a dandy idea for the husy woman. Telephone is 752-4057.

Blow-Dry Brushes

Do-it-yourselfers will find a helpful array of brushes made by Kent of London especially for blow-dry bairdos. There's a round one, for instance, that looks like a bottle hrush and can be used to get firm little curls all over the head ($3). A larger round brush will produce fluffier curls or flipped-up sides ($5.50). Longer hair would respond to an oval brush with bristles set in rubber to do a firm job of penetrating bair ($14.50). Saks Fifth Avenue and other department stores carry

What a woman who is really serious about losing weight needs is a calendar-diary to record every last morsel sbe eats and how much exercise she does. Jan Ferris Koltun bas filled the gap with a looseleaf book called "East and Run" (the run means jogging). It adjusting the days of the week. There are some apropos cartoons, tips on dieting and simple exercises. Holt, Rinehart and Winston has published the book; it sells for $4.95 at Scribner's, on Fifth Avenue.

Bee Pollen for Health

The bees are back again. A couple of decades ago, royal jelly (what queen bees eat) was supposed to do wonders for one's well-being and looks. It's still around, but much less touted.

This season it's pollen, a substance that is barvested at the bottom of the hive and that beekeepers sometimes eat for its supposedly extra nutrients. They usually mix it with honey. The pollen alone is being tucked into capsules and its distributors say that after bee pollen was added to the diets of a number of European track teams, the athletes seemed to perform better. The company does not promise to turn you into a superathlete, but a number of local women who tried the capsules report they feel just fine. In any case, baby bees grow big and sassy on pollen and the nutrients claimed for it might work for humans while adding only 2 calories per daily capsule to one's diet: Bendel's sells the Bee Pollen from England, $6 for a 30-day supply.

The house of Houbigant claims the title as the oldest French perfume com-pany—it started in 1775. Essence Rare, one of its older perfumes, which was retired for several decades, is back in a new versioo and new bottles

Sometimes traps have to be put out for animal iovaders, including gray and red foxes that raid the silently sleeping water fowl. (There are legitimately resident red foxes, too, in the zoo, who live among the bear dens but are shy of daytime visitors. This evening several are stretched out on the rocks of the den, handsome as frozen flame in the dusk, with red coats tipped in white at the tail.) Sometimes the simplest of creatures are most troublesome-dogs and cats gone feral in the South Bronx slums, trying to enter the zoo for a nighttime snack. Even the most well-controlled of jungles, such as the zoo, has life and death decisions going on. When Mr. Doherty enters what amounts to the backstage area at the House of Darkness, a beautifully errie building full of bats, flying foxes and other night life, be casually steps on a darting roach that has no official busioess there. But off to the side a large package of live crickets is spared, a chirping mass scheduled to sustain, on the morrow, some of life's more featured creatures, flapping and crawling about now under glass.

The House of Darkness, of course, is man's marvelous trick on the vampires and other creatures that stay up all night. During human daytime, the lights are kept extremely dim in this building and thus the denizeos think It's night and so stay awake, flying and scampering about for visitors. Then at 10 P.M. sharp, wheo they normally would be stepping out of their nests aoywhere else, the fluoresceot lights automatically go on in the House of Darkness, and this reverse sunrise sends everyone to cover and sleep,

The bats are not awakened until 10 A.M. wheo the lights are turned back down to a happing dimness. This is four and a half hours after the 5:30 morning shift of commissary workers arrives to stock the coffee urns, bring in fresh food and prepare for the dayloog job of feeding the humans.

Philosophical Blues

By CHRISTOPHER LEHMANN-HAUPT

ON BEING BLUE: A Philosophical Inquiry. By William Gass, 91 pages. David R. Godine. Hardcover, $8.55; limited signed edition, slipcased (200 copies only). $20.

Books of The Times

A celebration of the color blue: "Blue pencils, blue noses, blue movies, laws, blue legs and stockings, the laoguage of birds, bees and flowers as sung by loogshoremen, the leadlike look the skin bas when affected by cold. contusion, sickness, fear, the rotten rum or gin they call blue ruin and the blue devil of its delirium. . . A case against the direct depiction of sexual material io literature: "I would like to suggest that at least oo the face of it a stroke by stroke story of a copulation is exactly as absurd as a chew by chew account of the consumption of a chicken's wing." An investigation of the "dirty" words hidden in "Hamlet"; the true blueness of the fiction of Samuel Beckett and Stanley Elkin; the difference between the use, mention and utterance of words; and the psychology of color perception as explained by the classical philosophers. What do these exercises bave in common?

They have in common their presence in a handsome little book (with blue bioding and eodpapers), "On Being Blue: A Philosophical Inquiry," by William Gass, who is a professor of philosophy at Washington University in St. Louis, a oovelist ("Omensetter's Luck" and "Willie Masters' Lonesome Wife") and short-story writer ("In the Heart of the Heart of the Country"), and a widely published literary critic ("Fiction and the Figures of Life").

Really Not So Random

What's more, these exercises don't seem so random once you catch on to Mr. Gass's elliptical style (which takes at least two readings of his brief but pithy essay). For he is driving at a specific point here — namely, a plea to writers not to "celebrate . . . beauty" but to "create" it, oot to make the word flesh but to make the flesh word, not to write about sex but to infuse their writing with sexuality (sex being "the original reason wby we read . . . the only reason why we write.").

And "blueness" is bis unifying theme because . . , well, as Farmer and Henley point out in "Slang and Its Ana-logues": "Few words eoter more largely into the composition of slang, and colloquialism bordering oo slang, than does the word BLUE. Expressive alike of the utmost cootempt, as of all that men hold dearest and love best, its manifold combinations, in ever varying shades of meaning, greet the philologist at every turn. A very Proteus, it defies all attempts to trace the wby and wherefore of many of the turns of expressioo of which it forms a part . .

And, for another thing, Mr. Gass is trying to demoostrate the shaping power of mind: "So a random set of meaniogs has softly gathered around the word [blue] the way liot collects. The mind does that. A single word, a single thought, a single thing, as Plato taught." Mr. Gass's thought is blue.

Of course, anyone famillar with his writing, particularly his criticism, has eocouotered these ideas before in more elementary form. The essectial point of "On Being Blue" is an elaboration of his argument io "Fiction and the Figures of Life" that "the esthetic aim of any fiction is the creation of a verbal world, or a significant part of such a world, alive through every order of its Being. . . The artist's task is therefore twofold. He must show or exhibit his world, and to do this he must actually make something, oot merely describe something that might

be made.

So one's quibbles with this argument persist wheo ooe thinks about "Oo Being Blue." No matter how subjective language may be, it cao oever be completely detached from the objective world to which it refers; thus, Mr. Gass to the cootrary, it may be pos-sible for ugly words to elicit beauty. Not everyone will agree with Mr. Gass when he writes: "1 am firmly of the opinion that people who can't speak

have nothing to say" (unless of course he means this as a pure tautology).

"It's one more thing we do to the poor, the deprived: cut out their tongues . . allow them a language as lousy as their lives." Not only is this offensive to our democratic instincts, also violates our sense of logic: The lives of the poor are not necessarily

But "On Being Blue" offers us little chance to brood on such objections.

It keeps us too busy mulling over its allusioos, its cross-references, its critical insights ("Compare the masturbation scene in Ulysses with any of those io Portnoy, theo tell me where their authors are: in the scene as any dream-er, night or day, might be, or in the language where the artist always is and ought to be."), and its inverted reasoning (for instaoce, Mr. Gass first Illustrates what he means by literary blueness with a passage from Beck-ett's "Molloy" that doesn't seem blue at all, thus completely mystifying us; then, much later on, he demonstrates that the passage is blue because it involves "the use of language like a lover . . . not the language of love, but the love of language, not matter, but meaning, not what the tongue touches but what it forms, not lips and nipples, their activities to rubber bridge because duplicate, for one reason or another, the artificiality, the conventions, or the slow pace, has no appeal to them. But some of them will occasionally emerge to take part in head-to-head team matches, in which a rubber-bridge style is effective. And in doiog so they often upset opponents who underestimate them.

One such team captained by Larry Blum recently reached the final of the Von Zedtwitz Double Knockout Team Championship here, after defeating several teams cootaining players of national reputation. Blum's regular partner, Manny Reiss, has a quick eye for a shrewd defensive stroke, and showed it on the diagramed deal played recently at rubber bridge. North opened one club on a hand on which most players would open one no-trump, ooe diamood, or one of the major suits. After his jump raise of the one-beart response, South was headed for slam. When his cue-bid in clubs induced North to show diamond control, there was some possibility of a grand slam, but this disappeared when Blackwood revealed that there was an ace missing.

Crime and Sense

President Ford made a rousing anti-crime speech in his recent appearance before the International Association of Chiefs of Police in Miami Beach. While crime is a serious problem and there are serious things to be said about it, the President failed to say most of them.

Thoughts about crime inevitably ignite people's fears. While crime does affect the quality of American life, the emotional approach to the Issue impedes effective anticrime action precisely because it hampers the clear, rational analysis needed to develop effective anticrime strategies.

In New York and most other cities where crime is a serious problem, most experts know that the institutions which make up "the criminal justice system" do not really function as a system at all and that their dysfunctioning makes it difficult to impose criminal sanctions on even serious crimes with any real certainty. Last week, a New York City criminal court judge commented that because the police bave an effective public constituency, they get 80 cents of every criminal justice dollar; the courts, prosecutors, probation and corrections departments all have to carry out the rest of the criminal justice functions with the other 20 cents.

But in Miami, Mr. Ford oversimplified and distorted the issue by asserting that "too many politicians today are underestimating the public concern about crime." He promised, if elected, to mount in his first bundred days a mighty Federal attack on crime. Yet Mr. Ford surely knows that the violent crimes that so trouble people are entirely outside Federal jurisdiction. As Richard J. Thornburgh, the Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Criminal Division, said in Pittsburgh just three days before Mr. Ford spoke, "At the Federal level we are not a general law-enforcement agency concerned with crimes such as robbery, rape and homicide."

Moreover, while attempting to position himself as one of those politicians who really care about crime, Mr. Ford neglected to talk about the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the Federal agency that deals most directly with local crime. It makes grants to state and local law-enforcement agencies and bas the theoretical capacity to motivate local officials to address the distortions in the criminal justice system of which the New York judge spoke so accurately: Mr. Ford's oversight was probably intentional since the performance of L.E.A.A. under his leadership for the past two years has been so lackluster that some informed critics urged its abolition entirely. There was even strong sentiment in the House to curtail its life and to curb its funding.

If the President had wanted to exert strong leadership in the fight against crime over the last two years, he would have prodded L.E.A.A. to become a creative and constructive force in the development of a better understanding about crime and criminal justice functions and a more effective dispenser of Federal assistance. The record suggests just the contrary: a White House tendency to ignore the agency and to let top-level vacancies there go unfilled for long periods of time.

Thus, if one is to judge Mr. Ford by his performance rather than by his rbetoric, his first hundred daysif he wins the election-at least in the anticrime field, are not likely to bring about the changes and reforms that eluded him in his two years in office.

Without a Net

Two years ago, amid panic over the impact on the Western Industrial countries of the quintupling of oil prices by OPEC, Secretary of State Kissinger launched a drive to create a Financial Support Fund. Nicknamed "the safety net," the fund was to allow nations unable to cover the cost of needed oil imports to borrow up to $25 billion.

As a result of Congressional opposition, the oil safety net is now dead. The Administration "regretfully" concedes this, but obviously without much coocern. Moreover, under present circumstances, the scheme may just as well be given a quiet, respectful burial. The safety net was a good idea to propose at the time of imminent crisis; it helped to hold the industrial nations of North America, Western Europe and Japan together.

according to a White House source, sat back to see "how the dust settles." That delay sharply undermines the quality of decency and leadership Mr. Ford's campaign is attempting to project.

A Landmark Project ...

It is to be hoped that New York's notorious death wish does not extend from the local community board to the Board of Estimate in the matter of the Villard Houses and the projected Palace Hotel at Madison Avenue and 50th Street. If approval of this project meant that the city was endorsing new construction at any cost, there might be real reasons to hold up the plans for the hotel. But it would he hard to match the care and concern with which the city has operated, through the Landmarks

Letters to the Editor

A Case for National Health Insurance

To the Editor:

In his Sept. 21 column, "Waiting Room Only," Harry Schwartz discussed the waiting time that many Britons face when they seek medical care. It is important that the proper inference be drawn from the examples that he cites.

Obviously we can all agree with Mr. Schwartz that there is a wide discrepancy between needs for medical service and the resources available to meet those needs. This discrepancy, however, does not arise because Britain has a National Health Service but because Britain is a poor country with insufficient resources to meet its, various needs. In the context of that discrepancy, the British are fortunate that they have structures that can assist in setting "priorities on who should get and who should be refused care."

The National Health Services was created in 1948, in part to achieve a more equitable distribution of care. To the extent that some "private patients cao 'jump the queue' hy engaging their physician for a private fee and paying the full cost of the bed and hospital service," it becomes more difficult to achieve equity. Such jumping does not increase total resources available for health care and thus does

Conservative 'Waste'

To the Editor: The fundamental flaw in conservative political philosophy is that it does not conserve; it wastes. Not to employ or train people for employment or to pay them for some coocrete effort at iotellectual self-improvement is not being conservative; it is being foolish.

Moreover, national defense does not end with military preparedness against. a potential external enemy. Our entire population must feel, viscerally, that this nation is worth defending. One of the ways that this can be accomplished is for this society to demonstrate that the vagaries of the business cycle and the present impregnaoility of accumulated personal wealth are not the critical concerns of government.

To err, as we know, is human, But to err on the side of the alleviation of human misery is divine. After all, there is a limit to the toleration c." the pretense of rugged individualism and competitive capitalism.

not eliminate the discrepancy; instead it distributes care on the basis of income instead of need. An expansion of this private sector is equivalent to saying that the priorities are: Those who can afford it should get and those who cannot should be refused care.

Every nation has mechanisms to ration medical care. In the United States many Americans who need care do not obtain it because their income is low and medical-care prices are high and because the sum of the private decisions of providers yields a geographic maldistribution of resources. We, too, bave "many people [for whom] care is mavailable when they want it." Since we are able to spend a higher percentage of a higher per capita gross national product on health care than is the case in Britain, our nation faces a smaller discrepancy between needs and available resources, America needs national health in-smance in order to achieve a better and fairer distribution of care. The length of the British waiting lines need not be duplicated in the United States - any more than they have been duplicated in the Canadian experience with government health in-RASHI FEIN STITZECE." Professor of the Economics

Wagner and Deputy Mayor Friedman. These people who are part of the socalled "reform" faction in the Democratic Party are supposed to be above this sort of disreputable behavior.

Obviously this is not the case. 1 am equally disturbed that. Mrs. Abzug did not condemn those who either attempted or tacitly approved bartering a judgeship for a congressional seat. It raises grave doubts that she allegedly had no advance notice of this attempted political seductioo. Mr. Weiss is to be congratulated for maintaining his integrity.

Not a Carter Spokesman To the Editor:

Those who wish to consider the merits of William Safire's Sept. 20 column discussing my article in the current issue of "Foreign Affairs" can read the article itself. I should correct here, however, his attempt to characterize me as "the man who has condidate Carter's ear" on China policy. Actually Governor Carter has obtained a wide range of views on China as well as other questions. Any candidate would be wise to "let a bundred flowers bloom" at the advisory level. As the original Times report of Sept. 17 made clear, my article speaks for me, not for Governor Carter, who has already stated his own position in a variety of forums. This is fact, not

The past two years have demonstrated that the world monetary mechanism, including the Eurocurrency market and the private channels of banking, trade and investment, can cope reasonably well with the balanceof-payments effects of the oil cartel's massive squeeze on the oil-importing countries.

This is not to say that the process has been painless in all countries, or riskless to private commercial banks. Yet, with some help from official lending, the problem thas been contained. The industrial countries suffering severe payments problems today-such as Britain, France and Italy-are the victims not so much of the oil squeeze as of their own economic and political disorder, and the inflation it has produced.

Yet, the oil issue itself is far from dead. OPEC's surplus is again rising, and further price increases seem in prospect. This will contribute to the payments problems of many countries all over the world. Global inflation. exchange-rate instability and persistent problems of trade in many commodities beyond oil are endangering the world economy.

The way to cope with those dangers now is not through an oil safety net but through the International Monetary Fund, which opens its annual meeting in Manila today. The task of strengthening the LM.F. deserves serious attention from the Administration and Congress-not the short shrift it is getting in this election year.

The new I.M.F. Articles of Agreement, worked out in Jamaica last January, still await Congressional approval -and may not get it while Congress is locked in dispute over how to handle the Arab boycott issue.

The boycott issue is of great importance; but the shorfing up of LM.F. cannot and should not be beld for ransom. The Western nations can get by without a special joil safety net, but the world economy urgently needs a monetary net with which to hold together international trade and payments and avert economic disaster.

The Butz Insult

Now that it has been established that Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz is no poet, the questions remaining are whether ha is fit to continua serving in the Cahinet and what President Ford should do about him.

Neither question poses much of a problem. It is difficult to imagine a comment more insulting to black Americans or more offensive to any American who wants a decent society than those Mr. Butz admits having made to Pat Boone, Sonny Bono and John W. Dean on a plane trip to California last August. The affront to blacks "coupled with Mr. Butz's insult two years ago to Italians and the Pope suggests a vein of higotry so deep as to be totally inimical to the balance and fairness required for high policy judgments.

Moreover, by uttering his insult in froot of John. Dean, who even before becoming a reporter had obtained ha well-deserved reputation for remembering and telling all, Mr. Butz raised a question as to whether he possesses even the requisite judgment to serve in the Cabinet.

The only real question is why Mr. Ford has besitated to fire him. Though respected members of both political parties called immediately for the Agriculture Secretary's Commission and the Planning Commission, to Integrate the new building with the Villard Houses, while improving the design of the hotel and keeping the integrity of the landmark. In addition to the preservation and public re-use of the mansion's best features and the assurance of its continued existence, there is new zoning which contains guarantees of landmark protection and maintenance.

The kinds of specific compromises that have been necessary for the ultimate objective of keeping the Villard Houses alive have been constructive and knowledgeable, with gains for the landmark all the way. To ask for more, or to stalemate the project now-as the community board would do--is to ignore the realities of the situation, from the cost of midtown land to the limitations of the landmarks law.

The city has set a record for skillful negotiation and sensitive results. The quality of the solution is high, as the Board of Estimate should recognize. Obstructionism serves no purpose now.

Small but Vital

Building may be at a standstill in New York, but planning is not. Although this is clearly not the time for the kind of large-scale development controls that produced special district zoning and new kinds of construction in New York in the 1960's-for some of the most progressive and visible results in the country-neither is it the time, as some critics would have it, to declate the city's planners expendable.

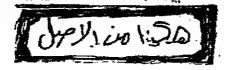

In a commendable shift of vision and scale, the city is working on neighborhood improvement plans, projects that can be carried out with limited funds for maximum impact. These are projects for which funds can be found when capital budget money is not available, and which can make the difference between a neighborhood that slips irretrievably and one that is restored to health.

The planning range is from the revitalization of deteriorated streets as centers of commercial and social activity in places such as Newkirk Plaza in Brooklyn and Beach 20th Street in Far Rockaway, to the resolution of physical and population pressures in Chinatown and Little Italy, and a special City Island zoning district.

Four of these areas, Chinatown and Union Square in Manhattan, Alexander Avenue in the Bronx and Montague Street in Brooklyn, have strong historical roots, almost lost in disruptive traffic patterns and environmental decline. Their study has been funded by a National Endowment for the Arts "City Options" grant-a program of exemplary imagination and result. All of the work has been carried out by the local, or "live-in" planning offices, or by the city's Urban Design Group.

In some cases, improvements have already started. Funding comes in part from Community Development programs, supplemented by state and Federal sources and business contributions. In Far Rockaway, city highway funds have been channeled from traffic and parking to pedestrian street features. The MTA would carry out the renovation of the Newkirk Plaza aubway station.

The trend in planning everywhere today is to deal with the immediate environment. Projects like these are desperately needed to stem neighborhood decilne and stabilize ycommunities. The scale is small, but the dividends and large that this offer was made by Lieut. Gov. Mary Ann Krupsak. "Inquiries" concerning it were made to Mr. Weiss by Governor Carey, former Mayor,

Of Africa and Racism To the Editor:

It is with the deepest of sorrow that, reading your news account of Dr. Kissinger's mission to southern Africa, I am forced to the conclusion that his proposals are racist.

Latest reports indicate that both in South-West Africa and in Rhodesia freedom, equality and political power for the black majority is proposed to be phased over a two-year period, with whites to be compensated for their anticipated economic losses by the taxpayers of Britain and the U.S. to the tune of $2.5 billion, I do not recall, when Uganda expelled its Asian middle class, any effort by Dr. Kissinger to compensate them for their losses. Nor do I recall any effort to compensate the Vietnamese refugees for their losses

1 see no effort, besides platitudes, being made to bring justice to the noowhites of South Africa. I suggest to Dr. Kissinger that he spend a month. living in Soweto and then develop a policy toward South Africa compatible with our nation's ideals. Daily people are dying in southern Africa. Whose finger is really on the trigger - a southern African or those American politicians and businessmen presently in power?

Equally regretfully, I feel Dr. Kissinger's proposals are supported by a majority of the American people, including many of the so-called liberals. The description of American white bigotry toward blacks is graphically described in the Sunday Times Magazine article on busing in Boston [Sept. 12].

WASHINGTON - After five years and $100 million, Datran, one of the oew competitive communications carriers, filed bankruptcy. It also filed a $285 million antitrust suit against its chief competitor, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. Certainly this is an issue for the courts. But Datran's struggle to survive is part of a larger controversy that has been bubbling in the House Subcommittee on Communications. The controversy concerns the future of the communications industry: Competition or monopoly? A free marketplace or de facto pationalization?

The questions, though simply phrased, are difficult to answer, for the answers must of necessity reflect an understanding of the complexities of the communications technology and the revolution they are causing. Unfortunately, all we have heard or seen to contribute to our understanding has been rhetoric, polemics and a show of political prowess evidenced by a bill deceptively called the "Consumer Communications Reform Act of 1976."

The legislation, commonly known as the "Bell bill" (for the Bell System)

petition, except that which A.T.&T. decided to tolerate, Bell's basic premise for its legislation is that competition will degrade the telephone network and increase the cost of basic telephone service. Nonsensel It has long been proved that the technical-harm issue is a red herriog, that costs will rise with or without competition.

The real issue is oot the degradation. of the "finest telephone system in the world," as Bell rightfully calls itself. Nor is it the basic cost of telephone service. Not even the "telephone" is at stake. What is at stake is the future. The railroad industry thought it was in the railroad husiness, not the transportation business. And so did the Interstate Commerce Commission, apparently. Look at what a sorry state the railroads, and, indeed, our eotire transportation industry are in today. Likewise, the lines between our dataprocessing and communications technologies are blurring, and A.T.&T. knows that the telephone business of today and the communications husiness of tomorrow are vastly different.

Already A.T.&T. Is providing services that employ stored programming techniques and other data-processing innovations. We also have a $35 billion industry made up of bundreds of es whose b 5 15 10 unregulated and unprotected, but are generating products and services. Specialized carriers that provide interstate transmission facilities and services to fill the unique needs of the sophisticated user have also emerged. Although the Federal Communications Commission recently began fashioning regulations for these new carriers, they bave no monopoly characteristics either. Thus the dilemma. We have a monolithic telephone industry, heavily regulated at the state and Federal levels, moving slowly but inexorably ioto markets heretofore unregulated but using pricing principles and costallocation methods of the regulated monopoly, distorting the marketplace. Sensing that Government might therefore bar its participation in the emerging markets, A.T.&T. recommends simply that all services be provided under its monopoly. This would require everything to be regulated over a period of time. It would thus stifle a robust, innovative sector of our economy and deny forever a competitive marketplace. Since the proposed legislation would do just that, this approach should be rejected and the legislation permitted to die.

The question of the Bell System's participation in the emerging marketplace of computer/communications remains, however. Do we exclude Bell entirely and deny ourselves the enormous benefits of its resources? There is an alternative if we can find a way for both competition and monopoly to coexist. The task is not easy nor susceptible to simple solutions. But working together the Coogress and the F.C.C. have a unique opportunity to steer a careful course between the wasteful extreme of unregulated monopoly and the kind of regulated competition that failed us in the past. Regulatory instruments that insure against both predatory pricing and predatory entry must be constructed. The traditional concepts of commoncarrier regulation and monopoly protection must be redefined. And, most important, a hasic and assured commitment to the free market must be made. Of course a consensus must be reached on this agenda. This will take time, hut it must be done. It matters little that we expound on the magnificence of our existing communication systems and our pre-emineoce among nations if we speod our productive energy devising strategies that serve only to restrain our initiative and set us one upon another in a winner-takeall game of power politics.

John Eger, a lawyer, was acting director of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy from August 1974 to July 1976.

The List That Never Was

By William Safire

WASHINGTON-The punishment for journalists on the newest "enemies list" is the Carter campaign's refusal to respond to any question submitted by the listee. Perhaps more favored newsmeo will press for answers to long-ignored questions like these:

1. Why have you delayed for eight months in making public the list of contributors-including corporationsto your 1970 campaign?

Mr. Carter's recorded evasion has long been, "Nobody ever made a report of contributors and we didn't maintain those records." That was demonstrably false: Two certified public accountants who worked on that Carter campaign have stated that such records were kept, computerized, and a monthly print-out kept the Carter staff fully informed on who cootributed how much.

The Carter pretense that his 1970 campaign staff just stuffed money into their pockets without so much as a penciled list for thank-you notes had this purpose: If not given enough time, reporters could not go to many of the big contributors to discover what special interests were taken care of during Mr. Carter's governorship.

Finally, with four weeks to go, Mr. Carter is grudgingly responding, to the demands of pests, including this writer, for his fat-cat list. We are being asked to believe that a Carter aide, idly rummaging through his basement in this quiet interval before election, clapped his hands in joy just the other day to discover the "card file" of 1970 contributors.

c"We didn't maintain those records," Mr. Carter has been saying. Presumably he will now insist they had been maintained without his knowledge. Or that he thought we asked for a "list," but not a "card file."

"Carter campaign workers were going through the records," the AP now reports, "matching names and amounts with a computer printout of supporters' names," Why was the card file not made public the day it was "found?" The only logical reasons: (a) it is being sanitized, or (b) every week's delay makes independent checking that much less possible.

Lest he be caught expunging the name of an embarrassing contributor, Mr. Carter has assured us that the list will not be complete. If there is anything we can depend upon, it is the incompleteness of "the list that never was."

2. Do you think it was proper to accept transportation from Lockheed Corporation to Latin America in the furtherance of its business interests?

Mr. Carter's evasion of this-and other evidence of his use of corporate aircraft of the Coca-Cola companyhas been that his travel was "strictly business," to promote Georgia-based industry. But that is not the excuse, that is precisely the conflict. Nobody asks the follow-up: "Would you, as President, accept largesse from United States corporations in the promotion of United States business? If it would not be ethical for a President, why do you claim it was ethical for a Governor?"

3. To what extent are you indebted to Philip Walden of Capricorn Records?

Mr. Walden, the rock music impresario from Macon, Ga., is reported to ... be preparing his grand entry into ... Washington, D.C. Did he raise $400,-000 for Mr. Carter last year-or more? How much has he raised this year? " Did he or his corporation or his executives pay any hotel or other bills for the Carter campaign or Carter family? Did Governor Carter propose legislation on tape piracy of benefit to Mr. Walden's company?

The Capricorn connection is significant: Mr. Walden belped deliver. Rolling Stone magazine to Mr. Carter's ranks; Rolling Stone sent John -Dean to haunt the Republican convention; and Mr. Dean's report of Earl Butz's salacious and idiotic racial "humor" will solidify black Carter support.

4. Why will you not make public. the income tax returns of the partnership and corporation you control?

The excuse Mr. Carter gives is his family's privacy. Nonsense: be owns 71 percept and 92 percent of his companies, and readily invades the privacy of bis hrother, Billy, or daughter, Magna, whenever it suits him. Those Carter company returns, if made public, would show a use of tax loopholes to increase the Carter personal fortune that make a mockery of his talk of fairness."

"I think the main thing," candidate Carter remarked the other day, "is complete openness about any sort of relationship where a conflict of interest might be involved." He means for Gerald Ford-hut not for Jimmy Carter.

Success in Salvaging

By John D. Rockefeller 3d

There is a soccess story in the lowincome housing field in New York City. This is a surprising statement, given the grim facts of deteriorating neighborhoods and increasing numbers of abandoned buildings.

Yet, it is true. It shows that buildings can be salvaged and converted into safe, comfortable, decent bomes. I am referring to a project in west Harlem known as Malcolm X.

A few years ago, the forty-year-old buildings were so badly run down that occupancy had dwindled from 95 apartments to 20. They were acquired by a nonprofit organization called the Urban Home Ownership Corporation, with the assistance of the Polo Grounds Community Association. U.H.O. was able to rehabilitate the buildings with the aid of a Federal mortgage guarantee and interest subsidy.

Today, Malcolm X is fully occupied by black. low-income families, living in clean, modernized apartments. What makes it a success, however, is the way the residents have taken responsibility for the project. Recently, they voted to increase their monthly payments from an average of $150 to $184 in order to meet rising costs. They took this stop for a good reason: Malcolm X is a cooperative. The residents own it and they are determined to protect their investment, Unfortunately, Malcohn X is a lonely success story. But it does indicate that U.H.O.'a approach could work as one major component of an overall housing strategy. That approach is to combine two factors in the same program: the rehabilitation of basically sound buildings, and home ownership by lowincome families. Rehabilitation is crucial in New York where thousands of buildings can be salvaged. Home ownership is important because it ends the traditional landlord-tenant relationship that often results in no one taking responsibility.

Since its founding in 1968, U.H.O. has been able to complete six projects in Harlem and the South Bronz and has three more under construction, for a total of 1,200 units. In New York City terms, it is a drop in the ocean. But even with this low volume, U.H.O. is now the largest nonprofit rehabilitation sponsor remaining in the city, and quite possibly in the nation.

This fact is a commentary on the depressed state of the housing field. The last eight years have been extraordinarily difficult for all sponsors of low-income housing projects. The fundamental problem has been the inflatiooary spiral that has driven costs up faster than the capacity of lowincome people to meet them.

But even more frustrating have been the inadequacies of government housing programs. The programs of the city and New York State had no provisions that made U.H.O.'s approach possible, nor did they allow any fees to help defray a nonprofit sponsor's overhead.

The Federal programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development were not designed for U.H.O.'s combination of rehabilitation and home ownership either, but they could be adapted to it. Moreover, H.U.D. agreed to allow a fee of 6 percent of construction costs for sponsor's overhead. But beyond these two positive facts, working with H.U.D. has been a difficult experience.

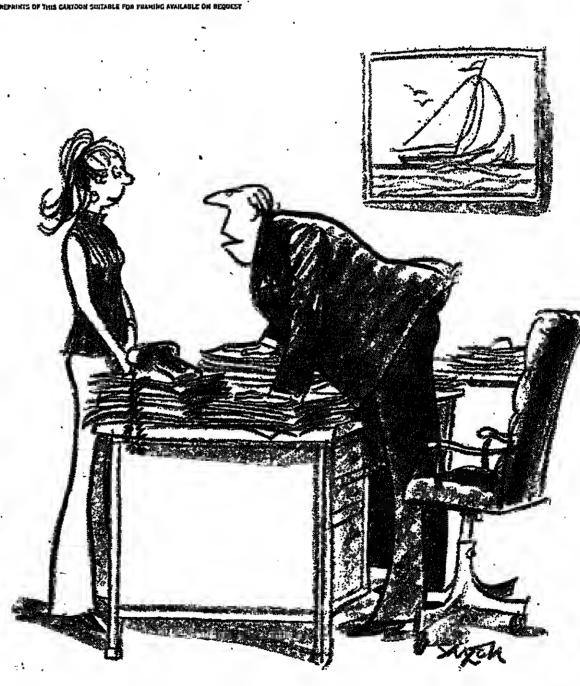

A constant problem has been red tape. It took H.U.D. 18 months to approve U.H.O.'s first project. Processing time for later projects stretched to two, and, in some cases, three years, The number of projects that H.U.D. has been able to approve has been far too limited. U.H.O. had hoped to do 1,200 units a year instead of that many in eight years. Recently, H.U.D. notified U.H.O. that the 6 percent fee allowed on all past projects is to be discontinued. This, of course, means that U.H.O. ultimately will have to go out of existence.

Malcolm X is a small beacon of hope, a low-income project that has worked in the city with the toughest housing problem in the nation. If this is possible on a small scale, there should be no valid reason why it cannot be done on a large scale.

I do not believe that the housing problem need be out of control, that it is beyond the range of human ingenuity and will. It is time to learn from the experience of the past and to fashion a national housing policy that works and includes all needed elements. Home ownership projects must be promoted, for they encourage residents to take responsibility. Processing time must be rigorously beld to six months or less. Modest fees are essential to enable nonprofit talent pools like U.H.O. to do the job. Many more such nonprofit organizations should be created.

Will this happen? The only certainty is that until it does the housing problem in New York City-and elsewhere in the nation-will grow steadily worse. .

John D. Rockefeller 3d was one of the founders of the Urban Home Ownership Corporation.

Las Vegas "capital strip" that is lined with gambling palaces. And it was more or less ignored by the authorities and accepted by residents, who apparently thought that as long as it was done with not much fanfare, it was okay to help out the tourist industry.

Two Factors Behind Changes

Now, at a time when hordellos labeled as massage parlors and book stores specializing in pornography have become a part of almost any American city of any size, two factors appear to be reducing the tolerance held by many Las Vegans.

First, Las Vegas has become one of the fastest growing cities in the coun-try, and it is fast maturing into a con-ventional community with conventional people." Further, the merchandising of sex has become so blatant lately, that the tourist lodustry and civic leaders are concerned that it will turn away more visitors than it attracts.

"Bebind the face of the Strip that all the people from Dubuque come to see, there's a valley full of pretty con-servative people, a lot of them are Mormons, a lot of them from the South, said Craig Walton, a professor of philosophy at the University of Nevada here, who teaches a course on morality. lic reaction situations. .

City Commissioner Ronald Lurie, one of the civic leaders pressing for the crackdown, said that he and the other four commissioners had all been elected on platforms seeking t curb pornography and open prostilution.

"We're a tourist-oriented city, dut we're still a regular city, like any city, where children are raised; we probably have more churches per capita than any place, a school district with 85,000 children." Ms. Lurie said. "I don't want my children." exposed to this all the time. Besides, it gives Las Vegas a bad name, and when Las Vegas gets a bad name, we don't get the tourists."

Part of the authorities' concern over the city's image as a sexual playground is that some establishments promise more than they deliver to tourists who want a fling. After trying unsuccessfully with other legal tactics to close the two large massage parlors, the city got two linguistics experts to testify that the massive parlors' graphic advertise-ments in tourist newspapers were explicitly promising sexual liaisons when, in fact, they were offering only massages.

DARIEN, Conn. - When Joseph Spadaro drove down the ramp at Exit 13 of the Connecticut Turnpike here the other day, three things were immediately apparent.

One was the white police car that was lying in wait at the foot of the ramp. In a few minutes it would transport him to this town's discreetly unobtrusive police station to be booked for the robbery at gunpoint of a woman's clothing slore here a few days before. Another was the role of the turnpike itself. Like many of the people charged with committing serious crimes here, the 23-year-old New Haven man had come to Darien on the turopike and had left Darien on the turopike. On this day be was headed back again

The third thing that was evident as Patrolmen Eugene Haynes and Robert Belmonte snapped bandcuffs on him was that the Darien Police Department, which once spent much of its time directing traffic, quieting noisy parties and finding lost dogs, ad grown up with suburban police departments nation-wide into polished and professional miniature versions of the nation's big urban police departments.

The police departments have changed as the suburbs have changed. They are bigger, more complex, more sophisticated and varied and, in part because of the suburban ring of highways, more vulnerable to serious crime.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1—The cars are battered and beaten. The fencers are crumpled, the doors smashed and the up-holstery torn. The piace looks like an automobile junk yard. Few people would suspect it of heing the most popular carrental agency in Hollywood.

It is not the place you would expect to find All McGraw ng in line to rent a car. or Sarah Miles returning one.

Then the Los Angeles Police Department found a 1964 Chevrolet that had been stolen and reported the car as wrecked. The car, with both doors caved in but running smoothly, was in the same condition it had been rented. That afternoon someone else rented the "wreck." After that, Mr. Schwartz named his agency Rent-a Wreck.

Dave Schwartz, right, helping Jeffrey Kramer find some suitably battered transportation on lot at Rent-a Wreck in Los Angeles.

But both actresses have been here. Miss McGraw rented an orange Mustang and Miss Miles got a 1966 Volkswagen with a sunroof. The place is Dave Schwartz's Bundy Rent-a-Wreck, until six years ago a cheap used-car lot.

In 1970 Mr. Schwartz sold a woman a used car for $225: it broke down the same day. She returned and said that she wanted a car that would at least last the three months she was going to be in Los Angeles, Would he rent her another car for the purchase price? Mr. Schwartz agreed and at the end of the three months he realized that he bad both the car and the money.

He started the business as Rent-A-Used Car, but changed the name to Rent-A Very Used Car. The rental agency became very popular with actors, waitresses, writers and anyone who needed dependable, inexpensive, short-term transportation.

It was Jeffery Kramer of "Jaws" fame that originally re-ferred to the Car rental agency as "rent-a-wreck," and the nick-name stuck among the local patrons.

his assistants, Kenny, after Mr. Schwartz's wife aod child. On the way back, Kenny stopped to pick up a customer, Don Meredith, the former football player who has become an actor. Mr. Meredith chose a 1964 Rambler.

Cars should be transportation, not ego trips, and the more beat-up a car is the better it should run-that is Mr. Schwartz's belief. He criticizes what he considers the superficial materialism of the car cult:

"People who drive Mercedes, they're always looking to see if you are looking at them. They're saying, look what I've got. I've made it. But in my cars they don't look at you. they look away from you."

And the people who rent the wrecks often feel the same way. Brad Dourif and Chris Srandon came in to rent cars for last year's Academy Awards. Both actors had been nominated for the same award as best supporting actor. Mr. Dourif, who played the "stutterer" in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo'a Nest," rented a beat-up '66 VW. And Mr. Sarandon from "Dog Day Afterooon" cbose a '59 Rambler.

North Central Bronx Hospital is brand new, fully staffed and full of the latest medical equipment, but it is not open. The municipal hospital awaits only an operating certificate from the state, but that is not the real reason why it still has not opened, knowledgeable observ-ers say. The fundamental issue is the extent to which the city will control the funds and policies of the Health and Hospitals Corporation, the quasiindependent agency that built North Central Bronx. [1:+.]

Balance of payment deficits must be eliminated by both rich and poor na-tions, the head of the International Monetary Fund said. At the opening session of the fund's annual meeting, the chief, H. Johannes Witteveen, said that the countries must stop borrowing to cover the deficits. At the same meeting, Robert S. McNamara, the president of the World Bank, said the wealthier nations must help solve the world's poverty problems. [1:4.]

The nations's economic recovery will stay sluggish for the remainder of the year, according to many of the bankers gathering in Washington for the convention of the American Bankers Asso-ciation. This belief comes amid other signs that the pace of recovery is slowing, including the recently reported declines in construction contracts and the index of leading economic indicators. The bankers also reported that businesses were borrowing less and that little improvement was seen before the middle of 1977. [33:6.]

Stiffer penalties should be imposed on criminal violators of the antitrust laws, according to Donald L Baker, the new head of the Justice Department's entitrust division. He said that he had given high priority to developing stand-ards for sentencing violators under the terms of a relatively new law that provides for jail sentences of up to three years for such criminal offenses as price fixing. Stiffer penalties, Mr. Baker helives, would act as a deterrent to others contemplating the same type of criminal action [33:1-2.]

Shofar Sounding a Last Time EX-REP. SMITH DIES At a Brooklyn Synagogue AT HOME IN VIRGINIA

By MARCIA CHAMBERS

Rabbi Solomon B. Shapiro will sound the shofar for the last time at sundown tobight, marking an end to Yom Rippur and to the life of his synagogue on a tree-lined street in Brooklyn's East Flatbush.

"It's very sad," he said. "There is nothing one can do anymore."

As Kol Nidre services began last night, the temple's elders took their talithim from maroon velvet pouchas and draped the prayer shawis over their shoulders and beads. They moved slowly, sadly. They, too, knew that this was their last High Holy Day service in East Flatbush.

-Like many other inner city houses of worship, the Congregation of Temple Banai Abraham of East Flathush, which a decade ago attracted some 700 Jews for Mom Kippur, yesterday drew 30 de-yout men and women, all elderly. Their children and woncal, an enterly. Their children and their friends, fearful of a changing neighborhood, have fied to other Brooklyn neighborhoods, Mill Basin or Flatlands, and Long Island and New Jersey.

Block-Busting Tectics

In the late 1960's and early 1970's, attempts were made to keep this sec-tion of East Flatbush integrated. But white bomeowners fled, succumbing to intense block-busting tactics. Some of-ficials considered East Flatbush the scene of the fastest racial transition in the history of New York City. In 1960, there were 281 blacks of a total 101,000 people. The 1970 Census re-ported that 24,236 blacks, many of them middle class, lived in East Flat-'bùsh

The 52-year-old rabbi, raised in Brooklyn and the Orthodox syna-gogue's spiritual leader for 30 years, admits to defeat. He, too, has been trying to relocate his synagogue, to re-tain its name, in another Brooklyn community. To date be has failed.

Rebbi Shapiro had planned to close the two-story brick synagogue at 407 East 53d Street before the High Holy Days, but the elders pleaded for just one more year and the rabbl acgoiesced

"But this year will be our last," the rabbi said.

Temple B'nai Abraham, which opened its doors in 1939, is one of a dozen moribund or dead synagogues in the northern part of East Flatbush, an area that was once almost exclusively Jewish. Rabbi Shapiro says that few Jews remain. He has tried economizing — and even Thursday night Bingo—but the end seems inevitable.

We cut down on electricity and heat," he said. The rabbi has not been paid a salary for the last several months and the cantor is gone, The temple couldn't afford him.

Its Hebrew school, which once had an enrollment of 300 children, closed its doors in 1973. Its last bar mitzvah, in May, was a happenstance. "Some-body wandered in off the street and made a bar mitzvah," the rabbi said. Siege Ortheder Lowe annut USA Since Orthodox Jews cannot use transportation to go to services, they are easy prey for muggers. The rabbi said one elderly member of the syna-gogue was mugged last week.

"He has given up and plans to move now," the rabbi said. Irving Getz, 72, one of the founders of the synagogue, also plans to leave East Flatbush for New Jersey. 'It Really Hurts'

"How can it ever be abandoned or sold? It burts, it really hurts," he said. Mr. Getz is the vice president, secretary and treasurer of the synagogue. The president moved away.

Samuel Weber, also 72, runs the bingo game. His wife also works in the synagogue. "Without bingo," said Mr. Weber, "we would have closed down a long time ago." Mr. Weber has lived in East Flatbush for 40 years. The rabbi said in a recent interview that Mr. Weber and Mr. Getz were the backbone of the synagogue backbone of the synagogue.

"For old people, a temple is impor-tant," Mr. Weber said. A retired electri-cian, Mr. Weber hopes to remain in East Flatbush. And when his synagogue closes, he hopes to find another.

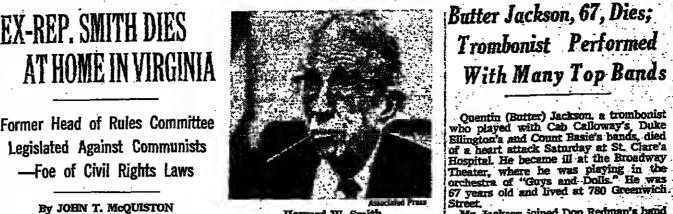

Like many of the old synagogues on Manhattan's Lower East Side, Temple B'nai Abraham has difficulty each day obtaining a minyan, the quorum of 10 for worship. Often only six can be

But Temple B'nai Abraham has a rabbi, and the building—with its hard wooden benches and stained-glass windows-appears to be well kept and solid.

At Congregatioo Agudath-Achim of East Flatbush at 902 Lenox Road, a few blocks away, the evidence of devear struction is everywhere.

The three-story brick synagogue that once housed 1,800 worshippers on the High Holy Days has a congregation now of some 20 elderly men and

The new breed of suburban policemen here is young, lean and aggressive, well educated, well equipped, well armed, intensively trained and highly motivat ed. Many of those qualities were illus-trated in an incident that took place while Chief Jordan was in his office here extolling the department's 35 percent case-closing rate and its 90 percent conviction rate.

creasingly busy four-man detective squad. "When I came in 1957, people here knew there was crime in the world, but they never thought it could in Stamford and robbed a bank near the exit ramp of $15,000. The county-wide "botline" radio hookup installed recently in each of Darien's 11 radio patrol cans crackled with the news in Now signs in store windows warm that shoplifters will be prosecuted. Merchants attend police seminars on minutes. The computer terminal at the desk at headquarters flashed out a description of the car and its occupants credit card orime and how to spot a in seconds. And a half dozen Darien creat card crime and how to spot a phony check. A new policy of "aggres-sive patrol"—a term whose meaning is obvious the first time a stranger gets a cold and calculating "eyebali frisk" from a policeman—was instituted two years ago, as was a "park and walk" program at the town's four major sbop-ping centers. police officers, none of whom have any legal responsibility in Stamford, raced to the town line, boping for a chance to join the action. Each man had qualified weekly at the department's indoor firing range with a standard .38-caliber revolver, and some of them had been trained in the use of tear gas and high powered rifles as well as in hostage negotiations and home discussed techniques

Crime Rise Put at 10%

None of that adds up to a crime wave here, or even sets this town much apart from thousands of other suburbs na-tionwide where the Federal Bureau of Investigation's statistics show a 10 per-cent increase last year in reported setious crime.

But it does mean that small town police departments like Dakien's have had to change radically from the days not so long ago when, as Captain Tos-cano put it, "we had to go out and grab guys to join, and then they gave you a gun and a badge and a uniform and said, Here, go be a cop!" Salaries then were as meager as the training. "We didn't do it for money, we did it for love," said Captain Tosca-no, who joined the force at $3800. Starting pay is now $13,000.

of the law, adds: "I'm convinced that there was nothing illegal."

The lone impassioned member of the Connecticut delegation is Anthony Toby Moffett, a 31-year-old grandson of Lebaoese immigrants and a freshman Democrat from the oortheastern part of the state.

His coal-black eyes hlazing and his dark, wavy hair runpled, Mr. Moffett took the floor of the House last week to attack George Mahon, the conservative, 76-year-old chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, for holding a closed House-Senate conference on a defeose appropriatioos bill.

Ignoring the conventional wisdom that freshmen, like children, should be seen but not heard—and above all not tangle with a powerful chairman—Mr. Moffett argued that a closed meeting was an invitation to special privilege and onder-the-table deals, a matter of keen interest to Connecticut, where defense is the major manufacturing industry.

"The fact of the matter has been that when we close a meeting, it lends itself all the more to, let us say, a Senator comiog in and saying that he is interested in this project or that," Mr. Mof-fett said. "I think that ought to go oo in the open." Few issues arouse the six-member Connecticut delegation to the House of Representatives more than the defense contracts that are the cornerstone of the state's economy. Connecticut manufactures nuclear submarines, jet aircraft engines, tanks, helicopters and small and large arms. The state received $1.9 billion Federal defense contracts this year, more than all but five states and more per capita than any other state. This was $400 million less than last year, however, and the reduction has hurt the state's economy and focused attention on its Congressmen., There'are essentially two Connecticut delegatioos: Anthony Tohy Moffett and everyone else. Mr. Moffett, an unahashed activist with a 100 percent rating from Americans for Democratic Action, is a leader of the freshman class and played a major role in reform of the seniority system and in natural-gas legislation. He is the only member of the delegation to vote consistently against the defense appropriation bills, even though they contain oeeded funds for Connecticut. "I have a lot of coovictioo about being consistent," Mr. Moffett said. "I don't think you're consisteot when you scream and yell against waste and vote for the defense bill. "I voted against all defense bills and foreign military defense bills except ooe. I feel that they're oot being ad-equately scrutinized. They're going to lead us to destruction, if we're not careful. We're jeopardizing oational se-curity by gold-plating the defense system.

Human Services Planning Office to Receive Financing of $205,000 From 11 Outside Funds

By PETER KIHSS

A new office is being set up under the First Deputy Mayor, John E. Zuccotti, and will be paid for by leading foundations to try to plan how best to reorganize education, health and similar social services during the New York City budget crisis.

The Office of Humao Services Planning is being financed by $205,000 put up by 11 outside funds. The New York Com-munity Trust is providing $50,000, and the rest is coming from the Carnegie Corporation, the Robert Sterling Clark Foundation the Booth Eastie Foundation Foundation, the Booth Ferris Foundation (handled by the Morgan Guaranty Trust Compaoy), the Ford Foundation, the Foundation for Child Development, the Fund for the City of New York, the Greater New York Fund, the New York Foundation, the Rockefeller Brothers Fund and the Chase Manhattan Bank.

Ron Walter, recently an assistant to Mr. Zuccotti and formerly an assistant budget director, has been named director of the new unit, which is to have about four or five professional members and two or three secretarial aides.

Herbert B. West, director of the Community Trust, which administers about 400 funds and foundations and frequently makes grants to help solve city problems, said that "this need was identified by the Task Force oo the New York City Crisis."

A Temporary Coalition

heralded the slart of an ancieot ritual The task force is a foundatioo-sup vesterday, and Richard Wong smiled. of major religious and other voluntary ageocies in the social-service field that was sponsored last October by the Community Council of Greater New York.

In an interim report, it noted that its members "appreciated that major budget reductions in the human services were nevitable" in the city's fiscal crisis, and had sought to propose priorities and reorganizatioos to "do least harm to health, educatioo and welfare programs and clieots." One task force study last February said that New York had become "a wounded city" in human services. It estimated that such services had suffered 57 percent of $201 millioo in cuts in city tax-levy funds. If state and other matching funds were considered, the group said, overall budget slashes ran up to $320 million — of which 73 percent involved humao services.

Welcoming approval by Mayor Beame and Deputy Mayor Zuccotti for the oew office, the task force said that it was "rare, indeed," when voluntary orgaoi-zations had been able to get "a structural innovation in city government." The new office. it said, would remedy a regrettable absence of city-agency ong-term planning" in human services and help coordinate budgetary decisions. Mr. West said that the sponsoring with relatively little money" from the new office, believing human services were essential to prevent heavy costs to the city in other ways. He cited Bethami Prohst of Mr. Zuccotti's office as haviog been particularly helpful.

The rite also included the pouring. of rice wine on the floor and the hurn-ing of imitation money. "We're more practical. than that."

Asked the significance of spilling-wine, Mr. Wong shrugged. "There are certain things nobody understands," he said. "The meaning has become somewhat obscure because it's heeo done for so many years."

Mr. Wong evoked repeated laughter as he addressed the audience in Can-tonese after the ceremony. He didn't translate the speech but rea Eoglish: "After doing nine cow-tows (bows) in front of the family shrine, I think I can say I'm fully a member. of the Wong Family Association."

A Fire Chief Benefits By Demoting Himself

On Saturday, Frank Carrothers was chief of operations for the Fire Depart-ment of the City of New York, the third-highest officer in the department. Yesterday, he started work as a deputy chief in command of the 14th Division in Queens. There are 150 deputy chiefs in the oppartment.

His demotion was voluntary. A quirk in the department's fringebenefit package qualifies lower-ranking officers for higher family hospitaliza-tion benefits, and Chief Carruthers's wife is seriously ill and in need of long hospitalization. As a staff officer, he was entitled to paid bospitalization for her for 21 days. In the lower rank, he is entitled to 300 days.

The difference in his salary in both job is inconsequential. Because of overtime, night differential and such. his former salary of $41,000 a year will decrease by only $5 a week. In his staff job, Chief Carruthers had helped accommodate the department to the economies forced by the city's strainened hudget. According to Fire Commissioner John T. O'Hagan, the loss of Chief Carruth-ers at the staff level "will materially affect the quality of fire protectioo in the city."

The task force has contended that it has been the only group "empirically studying the effect of human service budget cuts on people in a systematic and comprehensive manner." its chairman is Sanford Solender, executive vice president of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies. Dr. Reynold Levy is staff director.

To Work With Carter Group

Io mother development, the task force said it had agreed to participate io a working group to be assembled by Jimmy Carter, the Democratic candidate for President, "to advise him on actions to be takeo vis-a-vis New York City's financial crisis." It said it was seeking similar relations "with all other Presidential candidates."

The latest committee report last week strongly criticized the city's plan for meotal health services for school children in this school year. "Political leverage" by the Board of Education and teachers' unico, the report said, had caused "patchwork, unsystematic and uncoordinated services."

It said that this had reversed an earlier of Educatioo's Bureau of Child Guidance which the state Department of Mental Hygiene said it would stop supporting next July. 1. tal Conservation has proposed the setting plan would be adopted that cootrolled up of a commission to devise and put to private land in the area. During that periwork a program for laod-use planning in the Catskill Mountain area.

The proposal was cootained in a 15-volume study, released last week, a year after another panel, the Temporary State Commission to Study the Catskills, went out of existence, a victim of local objections to strong regional planning. The oew agency would be called the Catskill Regional Laod Management Commission. Recognizing the political cootroversy only for resideots of the area, but for inherent in a new regulatory plan, Peter all citizens of New York State," he said. A. A. Legislature convened in Jaouary.

The state's Department of Environmen-1 of preliminary work before any regional od, the schedule calls for the adoption of a plan for state-owned land and guidelines for a master plan.

Mr. Berle said the problems of land use in the Catskills had intensified be-cause of a lack of action in the five years since the establishment of the previous commission.

"The Catskills are an irreplaceable environmental and economic asset, not "We will all he the poorer if uncontrolled

As defined in the new study, the Cats-kill area includes Greece, Ulster, Sullivan

ered by the earlier temporary commission report, which included Otsego County and the hill, or southern, towns of Albany County.

In addition to decreasing the size of the area to be cootrolled, several other concessions were made to placate local objectors. One recommendation was that one member from each of the five counties be appointed to the oew permanent commission, in addition to two members

Moreover, Mr. Berle announced that he would name an advisory committee to examine tha problem of rising property taxes, the most controversial issue in the area today. The problem reached crisis proportions receatly because of the growth of tax-exempt properties.

"Land-use planning is of necessity intertwined with land-tax policy," Mr. Berle said. "It has to be recognized that landuse policies have a direct relation to property taxes."

For years, state officials and private organizations have been trying to impose restrictions on the use of land in the Catskills similar to those imposed on the Adirondacks. But some local governments aod public officials have strongly objected lo giving up control over zoning and other normally local perogatives.

Initial reaction to the new proposal was mixed, as it has been ever since land-um controls were first proposed.

Here in Delaware County, Roswell Sanford, the publisher of the Catskill Mountain News and a former member of the temporary commission, said he was glat to see that the idea of controlled develop ment was not dead.

"The previous idea died because of th political makeup of the commission, not on the merits," he said.

Because folks who have retired there from Midwestern climes have Henri's ia working two production shifts these days helping in its amall way to satisfy the growing love of salads in America. Advertising Testing Ground for Salad Dressings

By PHILIP H. DOUGHERTY

For companies introducing new products the New York market is s fear-some place, important because of its size, yes, but scary because it is so different from the rest of the country.

Despite all of the hazards, however, Henri's Foods Products Company, which for 40 years has marketed its salad dressings primarily within 500 miles of Milwankee, has introduced some new products here. Judging from comments by Leslie E. O'Rourke, executive vice president, it is overjoyed with the initial results. What brought him to town with his 10-year-old son, William is a desire to check supermetkets personally on Friday and Ssturday to see if his ad-verticing is median bis amedian vertising is moving his product. The product is Hann's Yogurt Dress-ing, and Mr. O'Rourke says that at the moment it's the only yogurt dressing around. Because it did so well when it was introduced two years ago in Milwaukee and Minneapolis, the conntry's two worst yogurt markets, the company was encouraged to bring it to New York, the best market.

The advertising---TV and newspaper ads with 10-cents-off coupons---is the work of Dswson, Johns & Black, Chi-cago, and began to run a couple of weeks ago. Example: "It's like having your cake and eat-ing too. Like watching your diet and cheating it. Who wouldn't love Henri's Yogurt Dressings."

The yogurt formulation was arrived at, Mr. O'Rourke said, when Henri's was searching—like other companies in the field—for a low-calorie dressing that wasn't watery because it con-tained so little oil and didn't leave an after taste because of artificial sweeteners.

The Henri's line is made up of four liquid dressings. — Thousand Island, French, Creamy Italian and Blue Cheese —and two so-called "spoonables" Yogonaise and Yogowhip. The total national retail market for liquid dressings is some $350 million, Mr. O'Rourke said, with the spoonables three times that and growing. And four companies hold 80 percent of that market-Kraft; Thomas J. Lipton with Wish-bone, Anderson, Clayton & Com-pany with Seven Seas and Pfeiffer's Foods.

Henri's is battling giants, but the same spirit that emboldened it to come to New York has also got it making a beachhead oo the West Coast, more yogurt country. In each new market a package-goods company faces the same first challenge, getting distribution, selling the supermarket buyers on the product so that he'll give it shelf space. Mr. O'Rourke says that his presentation to buyers was a simple one. He just got them to sample their favorite

"New York," he said, "has been just another market so far, but one

Nancy Walker Makes Debut in TV Series

Nancy Walker watched the pre-miere of her new television series last Thursday night surrounded not by theatrical folk but by advertising folk.

That's because Dancer-Fitzger-ald-Sample, which has been closely associated with her other side— the commercial side—for the last seven years hosted a private din-ner party at Sardi's to mark the debut of ber first starring vehicle.

That ahould really be qualified. It is ber first 30-minute a week atarring vehicle since as Rosie, the diner owner, sbe bas starred in the commercials for Bounty paper towels ("The quicker picker upper.") since the product, now num-ber one in its field, was introduced.

Miss Walker couldn't be at ber own bome in Hollywood because she was just finishing up her 12th pool of commercials for the Proc-ter & Gamble prodoct. There are four commercials per pool, and the first ones were shot in a diner in Little Ferry, N. J. Today she has her own $30,000 set and a dressing room right here in New York. P.S. There were no spills at the party_ Sant Dugdale Inc. of Baltimore since being reassigned the businass.

The ads, and there will be eight of them, have been running in The New Yorker and Newsweek in an effort to efficiently reach people involved in public issues.

There are eight two-page ads in the series and they highlight either indi-viduals or groups that the agency un-covered with the help of local newspapers or organizations.

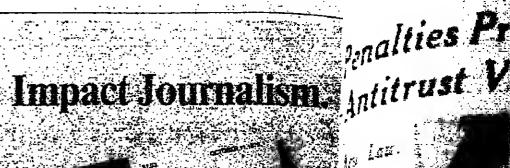

They include a music teacher in Nebraska, a man that works with black young people in California, a steel plant. worker in Alabama, a male nurse in Texas, a Maine lobsterman, a volunteer fire company in Oregon, a farm family in Montana and a Maryland family in the produce business

The campaign, according to Roy Calvin, vice president for public relations at the company, to do something supportive of the free enterprise sys-tem aod extend an internal program intended "to cultivate the notion that "to cultivate the notion that people is what it's all about."

"We just wanted to say something like that and walk away from it, not lecture oo the system."

Spanish Scientific American

Usually companies don't explain why they've selected especially exotic locales for their sales meetings. They just hold them and the heck with it. But here comes Scientific American magazine whose ad director, John Kirby, has led the troops off to a four-day pep rally beginning today in Madrid. Conveniently, Gerald Piel, the . publisher, has picked that city to announce the new Spanish language ediion or the magazine. Investigación Ciencia. Businessmen Reported Borrowing: Less Than Expected and No Stimulus Is Seen in Lower Interest Rates

This judgment, widely shared by the bankers, comes amid other signs sug-gesting the pace of recovery is slowing down, includiog the recent fail in the index of leading economic indicators, a decline in coostruction contracts, the fall in Wall Street share prices and the downward revision by many private economists of their forecast for economic. economists of their forecast for economic growth in the third quarter of this year. The bankers generally report that busi-nessmen are still borrowing less than expected this year to finance new in-vestments in plant and equipment and vesiments in plant and equipment and that little improvement seems likely be-fore early 1977. They doubt that lower interest rates would stimulate loan de-mand much. And so long as loan demand stays weak, they say banks will find profits harder to earn.

Prevailing View

The prevailing view was summed up by the new president of the A.B.A., Lid-don McPeters, president of the Security Bank of Corinth, Miss. He said demand had declined for commercial financing rebuilding as bad been expected. Skip Wanderer, president of the Wachovia Corporation—a large bank holding company in Salem, N.C.I—re-ported loan demand as "flat," but hoped for "an improvement in early 1977." From California, Robert K, Wilmouth of the Crocker National Bank described demand as "poor" with "little chance of an upturn before the first half of next year."

The discontent of the German unions over the way their country's incomes policy has been working is not related to the outcome of the balloting. The German Federation of Labor stressed throughout the campaign its readiness to "cooperate loyally" with any democratically chosen government, though most dop unionists —incloding the fed-eration's president, Heinz O. Replicas of Rifles are Boon for Retailers

By ISADORE BARMASH

Replicas of American rifles of the Revolutionary and Civil Wars, black powder and loading-firing accessories have become big business.

The big reason is that while the Bicentennial binge is over, the nostalgia lingers on. And the result is a boon for retailers. And it is also an opportunity for Americans to indulge in such new pastimes as hunting with reproductions of a 1776 rifle or proudly adding to a collection of them in a den or over a fireplace.

Replica weaponry, either in kit form or in already assembled pieces, has grown substantially in sales since late 1974 when they were first introduced at major retailers. At the J.C. Penney Company, for example, such items are expected this year to yield a volume of about $2.5 million, or almost double last year's total.

The boom in replica weaponry is also marked by irony.

Second Hunting Season

While the pressure for gun control continues at high pitch, none of the 50 states require users to obtain a license for the replicas, whereas licenses are mandatory on regular firearms.

In fact, to provide an opportunity for users of the replicas, several states have set up a second hunting season for hunters who wish to fire powderloading rifles. The combination of the lack of a requirement for licenses and the establishment of a second hunting season has spurred an increasing popularity for the replica weapons.

Despite the fact that the weapon reproductions represent a nostalgic interest in authentic Americana, most of them are produced abroad, primarily in Italy and Spain. A major American producer, however, is the Thompson as soon as possible," according to Irv-ing J. Louis Jr., senior vice president of ing J. Louis Jr., senior vice president of Bache, Halsey Stnart Inc., one of the na-tion's leading metals dealers. "A rise in copper prices is essential to Secretary of State Kissinger's peace of-forts in southern Africa," Mr. Louis ex-plained. 'The slump in copper prices, which is reflected by the record supplies on the New York and London metals on the New York and London metals markets, has also threatened to increase unemployment in domestic mines."

Kissinger Promises Cited

As Mr. Louis and several other major metals dealers said in telephone inter-views over the weekend, Secretary Kissinger bas apparently promised leaders of copper-producing nations in Africa that he would try to halt the slump in metals prices generally.

Zambia, Zaire, Peru and Chile are the leading foreign copper producing countries in the non-Communist world. Zaire is reportedly in dire financial straits, along with Peru.

For its part, Zambia's good will is believed to be vital in resolving the crisis in Rhodesia between the insurgent black majority and the white-led government

Although the Administration has reportedly frozen further aid to the military rulers of Chile because of the murder of that South American nation's outspoken critic, former Foreign Minister Orlando Letellier, in Washington last Sept. 21, it still hopes to improve Santiago's economic situation.

Congress in Recess

Because Congress must vote funds for stockpiling and has recessed until next Janoary, Mr. Louis expects the first copper purchases in February and March of 1977.

"That would be better than in the second half of 1977 because labor contracts in the copper industry here expire next June 3," he noted.

"By next June," Mr. Louis promised, "we will look back on today's prices of copper as the bottom. Not only will the G.S.A. purchases stimulate prices, but we also expect the utilities to be back in the market by then."

It is important for you to know that on Tuesday, September 28, your Board of Directors received from a California-based company, Petrolane, Inc. a proposal of merger involving an exchange of stock on the basis of 1.1 shares of Petrolane $1.00 par value common stock for each outstanding share of the common stock of Gray. The very next day, following unusual buying activity in your Company's common stock, part of which has been attributed to a director of Petrolane and a member of his family, Petrolane increased the exchange ratio to 1.25 shares of Petrolane for each Gray share. On that same day Petrolane, in the alternative, offered to purchase approximately 430,000 shares of authorized but unissued common stock of your Company for cash at $26 per share. After careful consideration your Board of Directors determined that the offers were inadequate and not in the best interests of the Company or its shareholders.

Now Petrolane has announced its intention to offer to purchase your shares of Gray at $30 per share. Following thorough study and evaluation, your Board of Directors has ananimously concluded that this offer is inadequate, not representative of the worth of your Company and its future prospects, and therefore is not in the best interests of the Company and its shareholders. Accordingly, the Board recommends that this offer be rejected.

NOT ONE MEMBER OF YOUR BOARD AND NONE OF YOUR COMPANY'S OFFICERS WILL TENDER ANY OF THEIR SHARES TO PETROLANE AT THIS PRICE.

You should know that the Company's profit-sharing and pension plans, officers and directors of your Company, members of their families; related trusts, Gray employees, former employees, retirees and their families own or represent more than 50% of the outstanding shares.

It stands to reason that if Petrolane is now willing to offer $30 per share for your stock, it must see a value substantially higher and must be convinced that the shares are worth more. Since the announcement of Petrolane's proposed offer, we have been in direct contact with, several major corporations who have expressed definite interest in discussing a merger or some other form of relationship with Gray.

In evaluating your investment and the reasons why Petrolane is seeking to obtain control of your Company we ask you to carefully consider the following important information:

- 1. During the previous five years 1971-1975 your Company's annual net income has grown from $280,000 to $4,377,000 a total increase of 1,463% and an average compound annual rate of over 98%.
- 2. Net income has increased from $.25 per share in 1971 to $2.94 per share in 1975 a total increase of 1,076% and an average compound annual rate of over 85%. 1975 net income of $2.94 represented a 116% increase over the $1.36 reported in 1974.
- 3. Return on shareholders' equity has risen from 4.5% in 1971 to 29.7% in 1975 --- an increase of 560%.
- Return on investment has increased from 3.6% in 1971 to 18.6% in 1975 a 416%.

Market Place Enforcing Environmental Dictates

By ROBERT METZ

Imagine six freight trains totaling 180 cars of 50 tons each haded with tailings—sand and other waste from a tacomite iron concentration plant chugging 20 miles upifil to the isolation of northern Minnesota each day. That, according to the Reserve Mining Company, is the prospect it faces under state and Federal environmental dictates by next July. It is either haul, those tailings that far or close down. Mile Post 7—seven miles from the plant—is also uphill. The site, a natural valley, has been ruled out by state environmental agencies on the ground, that proposed dams could break at any time within the next 500 years and allow the waste to flow back into Lake Superior. The company strongly disputes this contention. The matter is still before the state

The matter is still before the state courts, and the state is trying to work out tax coocessions so that the compeny will be encouraged to build the S440 million dump, saving 20,000 Minnesota jobs and the purity of Lake Superior, where the tailings are currently unloaded. The threat is from "botential" cancer-causing ingredients in the waste

Gov. Wendell R. Anderson of Minnesota is to hold a news conference tomorrow, at which time he may say what the state is willing to do oo the tax front. Meanwhile, holders of Mesabi-Trust, which owns the mine and collects royalties on the ore, anxiously wait to see whether their royalties will dry up next year or continue, possibly in some smaller amount.

While the Mesabi taconite mineral properties have an average life of 38 years and account for 12 percent of present United States iron-ore production, a 20-mile trip to dump tailings might cost enough to render the mineral deposits uncompetitive. The Armoo Steel Corporation and the Republic Steel Corporation and the Republic Steel Corporation each own half of Reserve Mining. They have alternate sources of ore and could turn to them if Mesabi's problems proved insoluble.

Uncertainty breeds fear in the securities markets and, in view of the many uncertainties affecting the trust, it is not surprising that the units are depressed. At Friday's closing price of 8%, unit holders of the Big Boardlisted security are receiving high yields. Its range this year is a high of 11% and a low of 5.

At $1.10 a unit—the preceding 12month payout—the trust currently returns 12.4 percent. The trust is withholding 14 cents a unit io case Reserve Mining closes down and thus eliminates the trust's sole source of income, When tax considerations are taken into account, the yield is even more appealing. Consider those who received the July dividend. For holders of record on or before April 1, 1975. for example, the July dividend payment was taxable at capital gains rates.

Few analysts follow Mesabi in New York. In Cleveland, a port of call for taconits-loaded ore boats where Republic Steel has its headquarters, two analysts keep tabs on Mesabi.

John Slatter, an analyst for Prescott, Ball & Turben, recommended Mesabias recently as May 5, following up on a more extended review of March-1. Mr. Slatter now says he cannot recommend Mesabi to customers.

"I am pretty sure that unless there is a state subsidy or something else is done, Mesabi will not go ahead with Mile Post 20," he said in a telephone interview.

He added, however, that if an agreement could be worked out, Mesabi would rebound sharply. The future, he said, is still a gamble—"a flip of the coin."

Ann P. Ogan, an analyst for McDonald & Company of Cleveland, is even more outspoken regarding the risks in Mesabi,

"If you want to shoot crap, don't shoot it here," she said. "People have always bought the units for income. If they do that today, they are out of their minds."

Noting that the high yields had drawn attention to Mesabi, whose volume last week was 130,200 units, she added: "You don't get that kind of yield without a reason."

She said that people who are considering the units should keep in mind that oext year, Mesabi could be out of business.

Value Line adds that should Mesebi's trustees seek to cancel the mining lease with Reserve and find another more active lessee, the company could jeopardize its tax-exempt status.

nicipal securities from the registration and reporting requirements that apply to corporate securities.

Thus, when a city sells bonds it need not provide 'potential investors with the same detailed information a corporation selling stock has to pack into the registration statement and prospectuses it is required to file with the Securities & Exchange Commission.

The theory behind the exemption seems to have been that most municipal securities were bought by supposedly sophisticated institutional investors — banks, mainly — that had know-how enough to sniff out any flaws.

That rationale began to break down, however, when the size of the municipals market — modest indeed in the hand-to-mouth days of the nimeteenthirtles — expanded to the point where the nation's cities, states and school districts this year are expected to sell close to $60 billion worth of debt.

Rising personal incomes — and income tax rates — also prompted much more widespread individual interest in the tax exempt. Individual investors became proportionately more important than institutional investors and changed the character of the market. It became less professional.

Municipalities

Many municipalities—often prodded by worried underwriters—have tried to accommodate to the change in the marketplace, particularly since the explosive impact of New York City's default on some of its short term debt last year drove investors into deep cover.

Most cities and states are providing investors with more information, and concede the need to do so, but many of them are also lobbying against proposed Federal legislation that would give much more precise form to the sort of information that is required.

Congress

In general, both the House and Senate versions of the Municipal Securities Full Disclosure Act would require any local government body that has more than $50 million worth of securities outstanding to file an annual report that would include, among other things, independently audited and certified financial statements.

The same requirement would be clamped on any local government body that sells $5 million worth of securities in any given year. The financial reports would be a major item in the offering statement that issuers would be asked to supply to investors.

Objections

One major objection raised by some cities and the Securities Industry Association, a major trade group, is a proposal that the S.E.C. be given the job of specifying exactly what information would be incorporated in both the annual report and the distribution statement.

In general, the specifications would follow guidelines already pretty much laid down by still another important trade group, the Municipal Financial Officers Association---a group made up Coopers & Lybrand study released last week, comparatively few municipalities have gone to the trouble of following the M.F.O.A. guidelines.

The Courts .

In court the argument has been keyed mainly to the 11th Amendment to the Constitution. The contention is that the S.E.C. is breaching local sovereignty that, among other things, gives municipalities the right to raise money. The S.E.C., on the other hand, insists ereignty. There are other points at issue. The prospect—and cost—of having outside auditors poring over the books leaves some municipal finance directors absolutely cold. So does the prospect—and cost—of shifting from accounting systems designed mainly to meet internal reporting needs to systems that would be more meaningful to investors. Wall Street, though it has been pushing steadily for more disclosure, has some objections to the proposed legislation in its current form, too. Outlook

Just now the bills are mainly talking points. The saving grace may turn out to be a provision that exempts from the proposed Federal reporting standards numicipalities operating un-trom the proposed Federal reporting standards municipalities operating under supervision of a state agency which sets down its own disclosure and reporting requirements. That provision has stirred interest in the performance of North Carolina's Local Government Commission, a ninemember board that has enforcement powers over municipal issuers in the state. It reviews and approves all of the state's local government offerings. The loads and budgetary problems—all major disclosure considerations. New York may take a somewhat similar tack through a bill that would require municipalities to follow disclosure guidelines set down by the State controller.

That is a more limited approach than North Carolina's, which many Wall Streeters regard as the wave of the future. Their contention is that opening; up the option of state regulation defuses the emotionally charged home rule sovereignty issue and relieves local politicians of the fear that "outsiders" will be combing the books. Whether investors will feel that way is still very much of an open question. STUDY FINDS DELOW EXPE

However, this doesn't mean, he added, that both lega of the rollover will move up or down hy the same amount. Another view of rollovers was given by Paul F. McGuire, chairman of the huge Chicago Board of Trade and a long-time floor trader there.

"Over the years," Mr. McGuire recalled not long ago, "I've seen many a trader become so enmeshed in looking for losing propositions that opportunities just passed them by."

"Frankly, I don't think it is all that worthwhile. The reason we have a market is that a large part of the trade wants a place to hedge against unto-ward price movements. Given this un-certainty, how can one plan effectively for such things as rollovers."

bushel, it can compete with even 6cents-a-pound foreign sugar, the report noted adding:

defend itself against the inroads of high-fructose corn sweeteners hecause domestic and international protective measures would only provide a price umbrella under which fructose production would expand."

Recently, Washington raised import levies on sugar threefold to almost 1 cent a pound in response to demands by domestic cane and beet sugar producers for protection.

The second factor, based on expectations that more protection for domestic producers could produce reactions overseas, "which could mean that the world market could become a dumping market once again with simi-larly low prices," the ContiCommodity report observed.

Finally, the report noted that Euro-pean beet-sugar production has survived the drought this season in better form than was widely expected, or 1.5 million metric tons thao the 29 million forecast.

Looking at the world sugar picture ContiCommodity ventured that "Fruc-tose technology is the greatest single innovation since Napoleonic wars, when sugar beets became the main source of sugar in the temperate zones. There-fore, it would not he surprising if the within labor for sharply higher wages next year is a spreading rank-and-file complaint that the hold-the-line policy lets the rich get richer while the workers make all the sacrifices. This age-old labor gripe has been fed by the recent release of official statistics showing that German corporate profits rose three times as fast as wages io the first half of 1976.

In tripartite discussions with labor and management before this year's contract negoliations, the Government recommended that pay increases be beld within a 6 percent to 7 percent range as a hrake on inflation. Simultaneously, it proposed a 14 percent fig-ure for profits on the ground that com-pany earnings had been hard hit by the recession, making a higher return essential to stimulate investment and thus create jobs.

The unions accepted this two-to-one ratio as an equitable approach toward reducing both high prices and high unemployment. Now labor's confidence in the fairness of the formula has been undermined by the disclosure that profits had gone up 20 perceot -half again as much as was recommended ---while wage gains were precisely on target at 6.4 percent.

A companion irritant is the stabiliza-tion policy's failure to bring down unemployment as rapidly as the unions believe necessary. By American standards, the current German jobless rate of just under 4 percent would qualify as full employment.

The domestic unemployment figure keeps inching down each month, but the continued presence of 900,000 peo-ple on the idleness rolls in the face of expanded company profits is making many unionists question the validity of the equation underlying the social contract in both Germany and Britain. This involves a chain in which wage makes old ooes more secure by enabliog employers to compete more effectively in world markers.

In the steel-producing sections of Mr. Loderer's Metal Union, which is expected to set the 1977 pay pattern, some local bargaining councils bave already urged their leaders to seek a 12 percent increase, double the old standard. Bafore any final determination is made, nowever, the Metal Union will consult with the executive board of the fug federation, headed by Mr. Vetter, a former leader of the Miners Union.

The awareness of all the ranking unionists that exercise of their substantial economic muscle to touch off a new surge of wage-price inflation would imperil prospects for real economic growth, not enhance them, seems likely to prevent any abrupt junking of the moderation policy. •

What appears more prohable is an effort, in cooperation with the incoming government and industry, to devise some innovative method for defusing worker resentment over high profits without raking money out of the in-vestment stream. Profit sharing or employee stock-ownership plans, on an individual or pool basis, might repre-sent an answer to the problem. Such an approach would enable workers to share in corporate earnings while avoiding either a choking off of economic growth or a relighting of the inflationary furnace.

Whatever the immediate solution, however, the long-range prospect is for much less reliance by Germany's unions on the political alliances on which they have long depended to in-corporate into law advances that American unions seek at the bargaining table. Even when their friends, the Social Democrats, are in power, that party's need for help from more conservative coalition partners has convinced

Despite the support of other indus-trialized nations, the United States failed in its bid to get quick action on the creation of a permanent consultative organization of copper producers and consumers that would be autonomous although linked to the United Nations.

The poorer countries feared that Washington's move could undermine the proposed integrated program for increasing their earnings from exports of raw materials and other commodities that was approved at the session at Nairobi, Kenya, last May of the 154-member United Nations Conference on Trade and Development.

But, according to knowledgeable observers, the real issue being debated and negotiated behind the scenes is the extent to which the financially strapped city will reassert control over the purse-strings and policies of the quasi-inde-pendent Health and Hospitals Corporation, which runs the municipal hospital system and hudt North Central Bronx lospital.

Like the incongruity between the pub-lic and private debate, things are not quite what they seem at the bospital itself hese days.

A Center of Inactivity

It was built to serve poor people pri-marily-but it is in a middle-class neighborhood that is far from the poor. It is supposed to be a municipal hospital, a replacement for the old Fordham and Morrisania Hospitals-but many municipal and state officials want to turn it over to Montefiore Hospital, a private, nonprofit facility that is right next door.

Critical negotiations on the larger issues-the future of the bospital and of the Health and Hospitals Corporationhave been under way among Mayor Beame, Governor Carey, other members of the Emergency Financial Control Board and Dr. John L. S. Holloman Jr., president of the corporation, while state health officials have deliberately bided their time on issuing the operating certificate.

the poor, that it offers strict fiscal accountability and that political rather than medical considerations are behind giving them to the rich. the efforts to cut back the municipal system.

Critics of the municipal system, including many top city and state officials, contend that the Health and Hospitals Corporation is an inefficient, expensive bureaucracy whose $1-billion-a-year Dr. Martin Cherkasky, Montefiore's pres-hudget might be pared by some form of ident, of trying to acquire a new hospital partnership arrangement with voluntary hospitals.

Corporation Performance Challenged The bospitals corporation was set up in 1970 during the administration of Mayor John V. Lindsay as an independent authority over the municipal hospital system. It was envisioned as an organization that would be free of politics and able, through management expertise, to increase efficiency, cut through bureaucracy and vastly improve health-care

In contrast, politicians who oppose an priangement with Montefiore are outspoken. In a recent news release, for example, Carler Burden, chairman of the City Council's Health Committee, accused ident, of trying to acquire a new hospital "at the expense of the taxpayers."

Dr, Cherkasky scoffs at the charge and contends that Montefiore could operate North Central more efficiently than the hospitals corporation, both from medical and fiscal standpoints. He losists that Montefiore's program can command more income and higher Medicare reimburse-ment rates, while providing equally good treatment for patients in all income brackets.

Frank, Ex-President of NBC News, Assails Voters' League on Debates

By LES BROWN

A former president of NBC News has the attempt by Mayor Richard J. Daley accused the League of Women Voters of of Chicago to confine the coverage of being so overcome with national atten-Convention to the activities within the convention hall, tion as the sponsor of the Presidential debates that it has betrayed the purposes And he added, "If you control the questioners, you control the questions."

of television journal the event. Reuven Frank, head of NBC News from 1968 to 1973, who is still with the net-work as a producer of documentaries, assailed the league for permitting repre-sentatives of the candidates to select the newsmen who would pose the questions during the debates and for restricting the cameras to covering the stage and not the audience. The political particular "don't want coverage the way reporters "don't want coverage; they want their proceedings given unmodified and un-sullied into the American mind." Mr. Frank defended the actions of Richard S. Salant, president of CBS News, who had angrily walked out of a meating on the league's arrangements for television coverage, because "people who don't care about television were the audience. to an article for the current issue of The New Leader, a biweekly magazine. Mr. Frank wrote: "The League of Women Voters, mindful of more public attention than it has ever had or is likely to get. seems ready to do anything the candi-dates want to hang on to this heady ublic notice." live of NBC News. He said

He characterized the league as "pussy-" ten the article because he felt the league 'should have been the last people to go have always considered to be only "a control what the public should know." "They've given it all away," he said, Mr. Frank likened the rules for what "because they can't stand all this marthe cameras may cover in the debates to velous attention they're getting."
